Final BULLETINS

Flying Boat Crew Lost Off B.C. Coast

A R.C.A.F. flying boat employed on reconnaissance operations off the Canadian Pacific coast, is reported missing and an extensive search by aircraft and surface vessels has failed to locate it. Western Air Command announced today. The number of men aboard is unknown.

The search is continuing but it is feared the aircraft and crew could not survive a storm which immediately followed. The next-of-kin of the crew of this aircraft have been advised.

To Repatriate More

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Cordell Hull indicated this afternoon that arrangements might be made for another trip of the exchange ship Gripsholm to pick up North Americans still interned in the Orient.

Vichy Blacks Out

VICHY (A)—The Vichy government ordered the blackout re-established in Vichy today following several nights in which planes were heard over the provisional capital.

Praises U.S. Fliers

WASHINGTON (AP)—New Zealand's Prime Minister Fraser arrived here this afternoon to spend 10 days in the United States.

Almost his first words were warm praise of the American fighting men in New Zealand and elsewhere in the southwest Pacific.

Deport 500 Norse

BERNE (AP)—Five hundred Norwegian workers who attempted to leave their jobs on Nazi fortifications have been deported to Germany, where they will be treated as prisoners of war, a Stockholm dispatch to the National Zeitung of Basel said today.

Numerous contingents of such workers were said to have been shipped from south Norwegian ports in the last few days.

Find Survivor Of Duke's Plane

LONDON (CP)—More than 24 hours after the crash in which the Duke of Kent was killed, Flight Lt. Andrew Jack, 24, Scottish rear-gunner in the Sunderland flying boat, was found stumbling through the highland heather.

The only survivor, he was thrown clear of the plane when it crashed and wandered three miles in a stunned condition. He suffered burns on the face, arms and legs but was not seriously hurt.

New Sawdust Order

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Sun says iron-clad orders fixing prices and business practices of the Vancouver sawdust and wood fuel industry are being written at Ottawa and will probably be published in the Canada Gazette by the end of the week.

There is no prediction as to prices, but dealers and War-time Prices and Trade Board officials meeting in Vancouver recently are reported to have agreed on a year-round sawdust price ceiling of $5 a unit.

No Further Changes In British Command

LONDON (CP)—The Press Association said tonight that Prime Minister Churchill had decided against further changes in the high command and was determined that the military machine "must now be given an opportunity to settle down and show what it can do without any further reshuffling for the present."

There had been persistent rumors that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell would be called to London to become a member of the war cabinet, with Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck succeeding him in India.

LONDON (CP)—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison today raised the ban on the Daily Worker, which has been on since January, 1941.

Stalingrad Placed in Immediate Peril of Siege

Price Ceiling Removed From All Periodicals

OTTAWA (CP)—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced today removal of the overall price ceiling from Canadian and imported newspapers, magazines and periodical publications in general, leaving the press "free to adjust rates and safeguard its revenues."

The exemption applies to newsstand and street sale prices and to subscription rates. Advertising rates already are exempt.

In announcing its decision, the board said a careful survey of the administrator of publishing, printing and allied industries showed that while larger revenues had offset higher operating costs in 1940 and 1941, revenues recently had suffered a "serious decline."

IN LINE WITH U.S.

"This decision brings the Canadian regulations into conformity with those of the United States, where newspapers, magazines and periodicals were from the outset exempted from the price ceiling," the board said.

Publishers were expected to try to maintain service at existing prices where possible, although it recognized that economies were not always possible or did not afford any great saving, particularly in the case of rural newspapers and weeklies.

But, competitive conditions within the industry, the announcement said, "make it highly unlikely that price adjustments can be made in any unreasonable manner."

WAY CLEARED

Discussing the new order, Prices Board officials today said United States publications, in some cases available to Canadians at lower prices than in the country of publication, would now be able to increase their Dominion rates, though there was no indication what their action would be.

In the U.S. some time ago prices of some periodicals such as the Saturday Evening Post were increased but no rise in the Canadian prices was permitted. The Post sold in the United States for 10 cents and in Canada for 7. Board officials said a few other publications were similarly affected.

Victoria Flags At Half-Mast

Flags on public buildings flew at half-mast today in respect to the memory of the Duke of Kent.

The Provincial Secretary's office at the Parliament Buildings received word from Ottawa that flags are to be half-masted today only, pending further directions.

No official word has yet been received here regarding official court mourning, but all Government House affairs will be canceled for the next four weeks.

Dutch Ship Sunk

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States navy announced today that a small Dutch merchant vessel had been torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in the Caribbean area about the middle of August. Survivors have been landed at a Gulf coast port.

Rising Demand For British Action

LONDON (CP)—Several London newspapers said today that Britain looks for concrete evidence that Prime Minister Churchill's trip to Moscow and the Middle East has produced results.

The Daily Herald, allied with the Labor movement, declared: "The British public's taste for trivial gossip about the Prime Minister's missions is flagging and its appetite for real news—news of results—is approaching the famine point."

The editorial was considered significant because the Trades Union Congress is to consider a resolution demanding a second front at its conference opening Sept. 7.

The Herald said Mr. Churchill's trips to Moscow, the Middle East and Washington "will become mere curios of history unless there emerges from them a coherent plan and common strategy for conduct of the war." The newspaper added that Britain is not yet "sufficiently assured that the goal of its efforts is solid and not illusory."

MUST AVOID APATHY

Daily Mail asserted: "Among free people, apathy may become a deadly menace."

Daily Mail proposed that Mr. Churchill visit British cities to give the people guidance and thus "deal with the apathy before it begins to spread."

The more restrained Times of London remarked that neither the Dieppe raid nor the bombing of Germany "has relieved the continuing sense of inadequacy in British military achievement at a time when our Allies face a supreme crisis."

Vining to Head Publicity Body

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today announced the creation of a publicity directing body to be known as the Wartime Information Board with Charles Vining, Montreal newspaper executive, as chairman.

The vice-chairman will be Hon. F. Philippe Brail, K.C., Montreal. Other members of the board will be announced shortly, as well as the directing heads for publicity in the United States and elsewhere, the Prime Minister announced.

Creation of the board was recommended in the report made for the government recently by Mr. Vining on Canadian information distribution in the United States, the Prime Minister said. The board will be "related directly to the war committee of the cabinet and responsible to the Prime Minister." It will "assist in distribution of Canadian war news and information in Canada as well as in the United States and other countries."

Headquarters will be in Ottawa, but offices will be opened in New York, Washington "and in such other centres as may be found advisable."

The new board will not supersede or exercise authority over existing departmental information services, Mr. King said.

Regarding the present information branch, Mr. King said: "Pending organization of the new board the present bureau of public information will continue to function under the direction of G. H. Lash, whose services the government wishes to retain thereafter as an officer of the board."

6 More Jap Ships Hit in Fight Off Solomons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Damaging of six more Japanese ships in the great sea and air battle for the Solomon Islands was announced by the United States navy this afternoon in a communique which said the results of the fight to date "are encouraging."

The ships reported today to have been successfully attacked by American aircraft were two destroyers and four miscellaneous vessels. One of the destroyers was damaged by American dive bombers on the night of Aug. 23-24, when the Japanese destroyer force was attempting to shell Guadalcanal Island.

The other destroyer and the four miscellaneous ships were "left burning" after marine and naval aircraft had blasted an enemy force of transports, cruisers and destroyers approaching Guadalcanal from the northward, Aug. 24.

In addition to these vessels, the navy had reported of this particular action Tuesday that one cruiser had been left burning fiercely, and a transport had been hit. Today, the transport was reported to have been abandoned "as the enemy force withdrew" from the Guadalcanal Island area.

MORE THAN DOZEN

The list of Jap ships reported today as damaged raised to more than a dozen the enemy vessels damaged in the new thrust the Japanese undertook, starting last week-end, to drive United States marines out of the Tulagi area of the Solomons and regain that vital sector for future attacks to the supply line of Australia.

"It is too early," the navy communique said, "to estimate the outcome of the battle at sea being fought off the Solomon Islands, but reports to date reveal that our forces at Guadalcanal are holding their positions in the face of strong enemy thrusts and in each action have inflicted heavy damage on the attacking Japanese forces."

The wording of the navy's official announcement indicated the air and naval operations in the Solomons area were still in progress, and strongly suggested there were still other vital actions to be heard from.

Tuesday it was reported that U.S. naval and air forces had engaged an enemy force of aircraft carriers, battleships and other war vessels approaching the southeast Solomon Islands from the northeast and so far as could be determined, nothing in today's communique gave any details on that action.

Killed in Air Crash

Britain Mourns Duke of Kent

(See pictures and story of Duke's life Page 10)

LONDON (CP)—All Britain, where the grievous message "Killed on Active Service" has darkened countless households, offered understanding sympathy today to the Royal Family, bereaved by the death of the Duke of Kent, the King's youngest brother, on a wartime mission.

The Duke, fifth in succession to the throne, died in the line of duty Tuesday when the Sunderland flying boat which was taking him to Iceland for the R.A.F. crashed in northern Scotland.

Circumstances surrounding the crash of the four-engined, 20-ton flying boat were held in strict secrecy, but an authoritative source said it was in no way due to enemy action.

The plane was believed to have crashed against a mountain.

The Lord Chamberlain announced that by command of the King the court would remain in mourning four weeks.

Fourteen of the 15 persons in the plane were killed and their bodies recovered. The only survivor was the rear gunner.

Among those in the plane was Michael Strutt, the Duke's aide and son of Lord Belper. He is survived by his wife, the former Arielle Frazer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Washington Frazer of Detroit.

The body of the Duke, first member of the Royal Family killed in an airplane and its first to become a fatality of war in a century, was to be brought to London later.

An air ministry investigation has been launched into the crash, which occurred in desolate country about 60 miles from the take-off. Press reports said it was in an area where other planes have been wrecked. Semi-official sources emphasized that the pilot was one of the most capable in the R.A.F.

The 39-year-old youngest son of Queen Mary and the late King George V was the most ardent of all the Royal Family. His career in Britain's service began as a naval cadet, at his father's choice, before he was 14. But his interests turned to aviation, and he served devotedly with the R.A.F.

One of his last official acts was to visit an R.C.A.F. reception centre last week with the Canadian Mary and the late King George V, Minister, Hon. C. G. Power. In 1941 he made an extended tour by air of the ever-growing Commonwealth Air Training Plan in Canada.

He bore the air title of air commodore, and was attached to the staff of the inspector-general of the R.A.F. The names of his companions on the fatal flight were not announced immediately.

His death was announced in a brief communique just before midnight.

As soon as the news of Kent's death was telephoned to King George and Queen Elizabeth at one of their summer residences, the King sent a special messenger to break it to the Duchess at her simple Buckinghamshire house, "The Coppins," and arranged for other members of the Royal Family to go there to comfort her.

The news reached the Queen Mother somewhere in the west of England and the Duke's oldest brother, the Duke of Windsor, in the Bahamas.

Messages from all corners of the world flowed into London. Editorials stressed the death as proof that Britain, from her highest family to her most humble, was in the war to the finish. Because of the wartime necessity for secrecy concerning the movements of the Royal Family, the funeral is expected to be private.

Reds Attack On Kalinin Front, Kill 45,000 Nazis

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians announced tonight that a Red army counter-offensive west and northwest of Moscow had driven the Germans back from 35 to 50 miles.

A special Soviet communique declared that the Red Army had struck at the Germans on the Kalinin front, 95 miles northwest of Moscow, and in the central area west of the capital.

The Germans in recent weeks have spoken of heavy fighting on the Kalinin and western fronts but this is the first official Russian indication that the action had reached the scale of an offensive.

The special announcement said 45,000 Germans had been killed in the fighting.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (AP)—Two successive German thrusts through Russian lines between the Don and Volga placed Stalingrad today in immediate peril of siege.

As the German tanks and other armored machines lunged ahead, thousands of workers from Stalingrad factories took up arms on the high west bank of the Volga to help the Red Army defend the great industrial city.

German vanguards had reached the flat, sandy plain extending to the Volga just northwest of Stalingrad and Russian tanks were fighting them in running battle, bringing them to at least a temporary halt.

Russians Re-form In Rear of Tanks

Russian lines re-formed behind screening tanks, the military newspaper Red Star reported.

"The situation in this sector had become complicated," the Soviet Information Bureau said. Russian troops, however, were reported still repulsing attacks by the vanguard of a 1,000,000-man German army both above and below Stalingrad, and Red Army cavalrymen were credited with killing 100 Germans in a night raid on a Nazi-occupied village somewhere between that city and Kotelnikovsk, 95 miles to the southwest.

Only in the sector below Krasnodar were Russian detachments reported to have fallen back and defensive fire and Soviet mines were declared to have accounted for seven more German tanks and 13 infantry-laden trucks in that western Caucasian campaign.

Russian tanks dispatched directly from their bases were reported to have checked the Germans in fighting still progressing. Russian gun crews, infantrymen and planes deployed to meet supporting Nazi artillery, motorized infantry and air squadrons streaming across the Don from the Cossack steppes.

Field dispatches said a Red Army force cut sharply into a flank of the relatively thin German salient east of the Don, but the invaders resisted fiercely and continued to advance frontally.

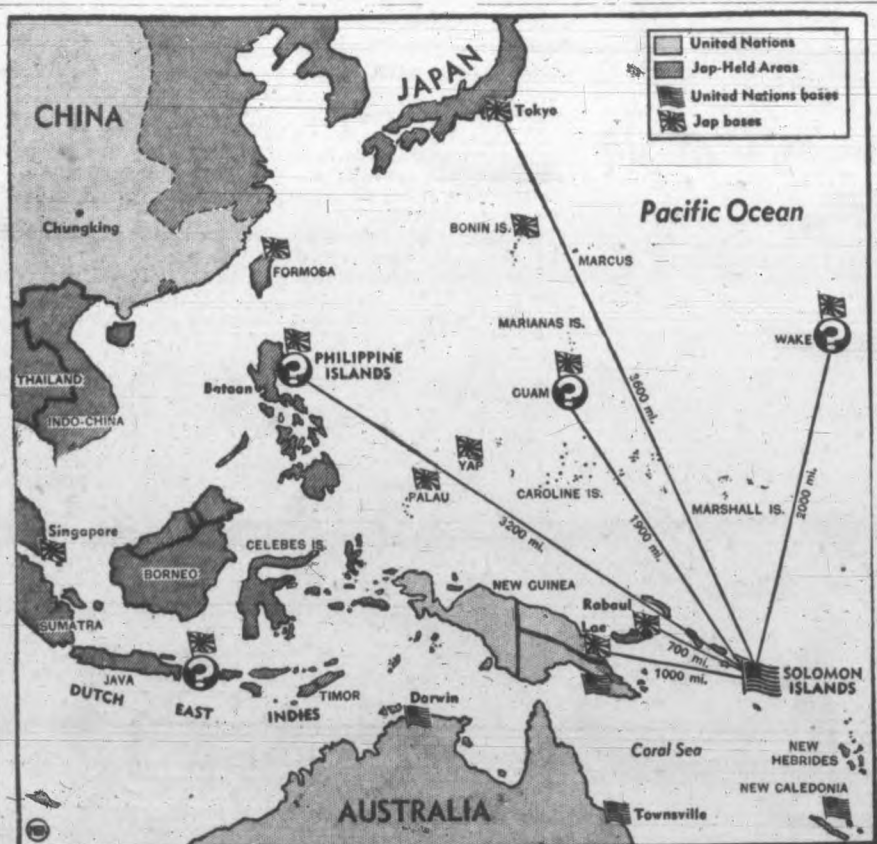

Kill 1,350 Nazis In 3 Engagements

Defenders of Stalingrad killed 1,350 Germans and blasted 53 tanks out of action in three engagements Tuesday, the Soviet information bureau said, and destroyed 92 planes of the bombers, fighters and aerial troop carriers which have swarmed against them in the last two days.

Still the Germans and their Axis allies—estimated at from 80 to 100 divisions—maintained the offensive in the attempt to seize industrial areas on the lower Volga, slash Caspian shipping routes and isolate the Caucasus.

Although winds blew chill in Moscow, heralding the approach of another Russian winter, the relatively moderate temperature range of the Soviet deep south indicated the weather there would prove no significant defensive factor.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts, AP)—The German high command claimed today a great fire is raging in Stalingrad and the city has been pounded day and night by the German air force with high explosives and incendiary bombs.

A START ON THE LONG ROAD BACK—Establishment of a foothold in the Solomons will give the U.S. a new base for operations looking toward recapture of Pacific islands captured by Japan. Where will the next blow fall? Map shows distances to some possible objectives.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

As the diplomatic exchange liner Gripsholm plowed into the safe waters of New York harbor Tuesday with its load of war-faded Canadians and Americans repatriated from the barbarities of Japanese prison cells, the home-comingers wept and cheered brokenly at the thought of being back in their free countries.

Today in the far southwestern Pacific among the Solomon Islands Allied and Japanese forces are locked in a great sea and air conflict which may go far towards determining whether there shall be continued liberty in the Pacific.

A Japanese victory might take the Nipponese a long way towards achievement of their announced ambition of dictating peace in Washington. That would mean the transfer to this continent of the torture chamber, the wholesale murders and rapings and the insufferable militaristic repression which exceeds even Hitlerism in its brutal arrogance.

This is indeed a fateful moment for the Allies. Not only is the wheel of fortune whirling in the Orient, but over in the milling Russian theatre Hitler is throwing into the decisive battle of the Caucasus every ounce of striking power he possesses in an effort to make a kill. The position of the Red armies is one of dire peril, though it isn't by any means hopeless.

In perhaps eight weeks or so that wheel of fortune will stop spinning and the little ball will drop to tell us what our luck may be. Our great concern, of course, is Hitler. He must be stopped before snow flies. If we can keep him away from fresh resources and preserve the Russian fighting machine from destruction, then we shall have our grasp on sure victory, for we can handle the Japs once we have stopped Hitler.

Still, the Japanese and the Germans can't be considered as separate units at this juncture. The Battle of the Caucasus and the Battle of the Solomons are interlocking in their effect.

From the meagre information at hand it would appear the Nipponese are gambling with a large section of their grand fleet. If America can inflict on the Japanese a further heavy naval loss, without itself suffering severely, then she probably will have settled the supremacy of the Pacific in the Allies' favor. That won't be one but a whole handful of nails in the Jap coffin.

Gord. Walsh Hits Nazi Ship in Raid

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
LONDON (CP) — The Demolition squadron of the R.C.A.F. bombed and damaged two enemy ships in a moonlight attack on a convoy off the Frisian Islands Tuesday night.

All aircraft returned safely
after a brush with Nazi fighters protecting the convoy.
Wing-Comdr. A. C. Brown of Winnipeg led the attack against the convoy, which consisted of four supply ships and five anti-aircraft vessels. The raid was executed in the face of intense flak from the escort ships and opposition of night fighters, R.C.
A.F. headquarters announced.

SMOKE POURS OUT

As Brown swept down to bomb one of the ships, he saw a large column of smoke nearly 500 feet high pouring from a vessel which had been attacked a few minutes earlier by P.O. Gord Walsh of Victoria. After Brown's attack another column of smoke rose from the convoy.

(Born in Victoria, P.O. Gordon
C. Walsh is a son of Mr. and Mrs.
C. G. Walsh, 1235 McKenzie
Street. He attended Sir James Douglas School and the Victoria High School, and was employed by the Shell Oil Company here before joining the air force.)
Walsh's navigator, P.O. K. S.
Goodman of Edmonton, said one of that plane's bombs landed aft on a medium-sized ship. Their plane, a Hudson bomber, was attacked by a Nazi night fighter as it recrossed the convoy to estimate the damage. When it returned to its base, rear-gunner
Sgt. W. Wright of Kenton, Man., spotted a 6-inch tear in the front of his turret, "which certainly wasn't there when we took off."

FLYING ADJUTANT

In Brown's machine were Flt.
Lt. Ed. Kendall of Vancouver, Flt. Lt. Dick Whalley, the "flying adjutant" from Sydney, N.S., and P.O.'s R. O. Worthington of Toronto, and W. H. Brown of Amherst, N.S.

Single planes of the bomber command attacked targets in western Germany and Holland by daylight Tuesday, the Air Ministry announced today.

A Hudson bomber flown by P.O.
C. A. M. Taylor of Vancouver was attacked by three night fighters before he was able to lose them.

Sgt. H. Collins of Vancouver had to put his Hudson into a dive from 4,000 feet to 200 before a Junkers 88 gave up the pursuit. Sgts. Grant Fowle, G. E.
Greenwood and Joe Harrison, all of Vancouver, were in Collins' crew.

Docks and shipping at La Palice, a port on the Bay of Biscay, were also bombed.

One bomber failed to return from these operations, the R.A.F. communicated said.

The Air Ministry news service reported that a Hurricane bomber attacked seven German boats

P.O. G. WALSH

two miles off the French coast during the night, the pilot descending to mast height and later seeing one boat afire.

British fighters also made another cross-Channel foray in daylight.

NAZIS LOSE TWO

German airmen caused some property damage and a number of casualties at a south coast town today in a raid that cost them two Focke-Wulf 190's, victims of anti-aircraft gunners.
They were fighters presumably assigned as bomber escorts. One crashed outside of the town and the other fell into the sea. The pilots of both were believed killed.

The German radio reported that Great Yarmouth and Ipswich, both in southeast England, had been bombed Tuesday night.
In East Anglia 12 persons were killed when a German bomb struck a shelter. The dead included a woman and her eight children.

HOME IN MORNING

The British fighters returned from their actions against Nazi objectives on the continent soon after breakfast time, crossing the English coast at a low level between Folkestone and Dover.

A small number of casualties and a little damage were reported caused during the night by German bombers which flew over East Anglia and bombed a few places near the coast.

The Nazis pelted the countryside with incendiaries, but quick action by rural fire guards saved crops ripening in the fields. Only a few small blazes resulted.

Farmers had been warned that harvest time was likely to bring renewed German efforts to fire the maturing grain. Restrictions had been placed on the grouping of haystacks and a close watch provided at danger points.

Five persons were killed when a small number of raiders unloaded high-explosive bombs on a working-class district in one East Anglian town.

the "Old Contemptibles" fought the memorable Battle of Le Cateau on the retreat from Mons.

Today one of the few original

He is Frederic Davies, late of the

He has written some poetry on the subjects of war and peace, but

Effect Savings In Rubber Use

OTTAWA (CP) — Munitions
Minister Howe announced today
"long strides have been taken" in substituting reclaim rubber for crude rubber in making essential war supplies.

Tight control is being exercised over the use of both reclaim and crude in the production of military tires and similar material, with 50 per cent of the reclaim used in the second quarter of this year going into war manufacture and 42 per cent into essential articles such as rubber footwear, protective clothing, gloves and footwear for essential services, wire and cable, certain tire repair material and similar items.

Chinese Close in On Chuhsien

CHUNGKING (AP) — The counterattacking Chinese have occupied a point 4½ miles from Chuhsien, and are developing a "concerted attack" on that strategic Chekiang province city from which Japan could be bombed, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Chuhsien is the site of the biggest air field in China, built by the labor of 200,000 coolies.

The Chinese attack on it extends the Chinese grasp on the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway to about 165 miles, 40 of them in coastal Chekiang in a thrust from the west, the remainder in Kiangsi in drives from both east and west.

At one point in the present campaign the Japanese held the entire railroad briefly.

JAPS FALLING BACK

The Japanese today were reported to be still drawing their forces toward Nanchang, their big invasion base in northern Kiangsi province, following Chinese recapture of Tungtsiang, 50 miles to the southeast.

Tungtsiang, which Chinese reports said was recaptured Monday, became the 11th important point in east China regained by the Chinese in the one week since

Dieppe Fighters Want to Return

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian fighting men, back from their first brush with the enemy at Dieppe, are just waiting to get another crack at him, Maj. Gen.
H. F. G. Letson, adjutant-general, said today.

Gen. Letson returned to Ottawa by air from England Monday night after spending last Saturday and Sunday chatting with the wounded men from the Dieppe battle. He visited every one in the four hospitals which contain the bulk of the men who came back from the battle of Dieppe with wounds.

"Two things were outstanding in the impressions I got from talking with the men," he said.

"First their spirits were right up. Their morale is high. They are only waiting to get another crack at him."

"Secondly, they kept asking me 'how is my officer?' They thought they had the most wonderful officers in the world. Time after time I was told they would not have got anywhere if it hadn't been for their officers."

the invasion tide began receding in that area.

Like Shangjao, the first to be wrenched from Japanese control, Tungtsiang is a railroad centre.

ALASKA'S WEATHER IS A FOE, TOO

Fighting Japs is only half the battle in the Northern Alaska and Aleutian area. Troops in Alaska vicinity are already encountering snow and ice like that above. Photo shows a Navy PBV patrol bomber, under guard of a

Dieppe Raid New Technique To End Deadlock

OTTAWA (CP) — The raid on Dieppe a week ago today may prove to be a distinctly Canadian contribution to the technique of modern warfare as well as a contribution to the ultimate victory of the United Nations, in the opinion of some students of military history.

After appropriate study from all angles it may point the way to a break in the present deadlock in the west just as the trench raids, also invented by Canadians, proved a means of ending a deadlock in the first Great War.

Similarities between the present position of the German and Allied forces and that which pre-valled in the fall of 1915 have been noted. Both then and now the two forces confronted each other without, apparently, being able to get at each other except by big offensive operations which involved tremendous preparations, great accumulations of men and material and great losses.

Then it was the system of trench warfare which both sides followed which brought movement to a standstill. Now it is the stretch of water which separates Britain from the continent of Europe.

In November, 1915, the 7th Canadian Battalion, then under command of Lieut. Col. Victor Odum of Vancouver, now a major-general and High Commissioner to Australia, pulled off the first successful trench raid.

A way was found of getting into the enemy trenches. It involved careful preparations, rehearsals of the part each man was to play and surprise. On the first raid a handful of men broke into the German trenches, smashed things up, killed 50 German and brought back 12 prisoners at the cost of one man killed and one wounded.

The purposes of the trench raids, which became standard practice throughout the British and French armies as a result of that experiment were to shatter the morale of the enemy, to damage his installations and to obtain information from prisoners and first-hand observation.

The raid on Dieppe served these same purposes and no doubt others as well. Naturally the high command is not saying what its main purpose was.

The Germans found a way past the Maginot Line, supposedly perfect. They did not find a way to cross the Channel and land in Britain. Instead, they relied on that Channel and their coastal defences as a protection and turned their attentions eastward to Russia.

At Dieppe the Canadian army punched a hole in that defence, temporarily. By this time the men who conceived and executed the raid probably know whether its results show the possibility of punching a permanent hole through which a mechanized army can march or a series of similar temporary holes for the purpose of harassing the enemy, and forcing him to tie up more men in the west while the Russians fight on the east.

Gallup Poll

King Gets Most Votes
As to Greatest Living
Canadian; McNaughton Next

WHO IS THE GREATEST LIVING CANADIAN?

NOBODY—39% MR. KING—22% MACNAUGHTON—15%

TORONTO—Two out of every five Canadians quizzed by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion (Gallup Poll) interviewed as to whom they thought was the greatest living Canadian, couldn't answer at all, or said there "just weren't any."

Nearly a score of different Canadians here and abroad were mentioned by those who did have some idea on this subject. Over the country as a whole, Prime Minister W. L. M. King, with 22 per cent, received the most votes, with General A. D. L. McNaughton a close second. The question was worded this way:

"Who, in your opinion, is the greatest living Canadian?"

The national vote, with all classes and types of Canadians represented in their proper proportion, was as follows:

Don't know, or can't decide, 39% "There is no great Canadian," 2%

King 22% McNaughton 15%

Then came a big drop:

Bennett 3% Beaverbrook 2%

Rene Chaloult 2%

The following Canadians received approximately 1 per cent each, of the total national vote:

Cardinal Villeneuve, Hon. J. L. Ilesley, Hon. J. L. Ralston, Col. George Drew, Sir William Mulock, Hon. R. B. Hanson, M. J. W. Coldwell, Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario, Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, Maxime Raymond and Hon. P. J. A. Carlin.

SOME CHANGES

Some interesting changes in these ratings appear if the votes of English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians are separated.

ated. For one thing, General McNaughton would head the list among English-Canadians, with 17 per cent of these votes, against Mackenzie King's 14 per cent. On the other hand, Mr. King's lead among the French is by far the greatest, with 50 per cent of those French-Canadians interviewed voting for the Prime Minister. No other party leader received even as much as 1 per cent of the French-speaking votes.

Here is the way the judgment of Canadians would be split on the basis of language:

English Speaking French Speaking

One of the interesting features about the above table is the fact that apparently the French-speaking Canadians of Quebec are much less undecided, or skeptical of the ability of present-day Canada to produce great men than are their English-speaking fellow countrymen. This skepticism reached its zenith in an elderly Maritime farmer, who told the Gallup reporter that, in his opinion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the greatest living Canadian. When it was pointed out that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was dead, the farmer replied, "He's no leader than some of the politicians you'll have named to you."

Padre Remains With Dieppe Men

LONDON (CP)—Under a heading, "The Men of Dieppe," the News-Chronicle tells the story:

The raid was over. Loaded barges were pulling out of Dieppe. Suddenly on one barge carrying Canadian soldiers a man stepped to the side. On his battle-dress he wore the three pips of a captain and a deep purple ribbon.

He was the Presbyterian padre who had accompanied his unit on the raid and had landed with the troops, scaled cliffs and when the signal was given returned to the beach.

"I'm going back," the padre shouted to his men. "There are enough padres in England. Our fellows left behind will need help."

Present-day conditions are very apt to lead to a Near-sightedness which has a very bad effect on the Business Vision.

With curtailment and conservation the order of the day in so many directions, there's a temptation to curtail advertising—a tendency to forget that the most economical insurance for tomorrow's business is to keep alive the reputation your product or service enjoys today.

Even if you DO have more business than you can handle, even if you are loaded down with Government orders, history has proven over and over again that it is still the part of wisdom to keep on telling your story and keeping your name and product in the mind of a forgetful public.

Thirty years' experience in Merchandising in every line, on three continents, and under the most competitive conditions, might make our suggestions of some value.

Correspondents are reminded to use one side of the paper only, to write legibly, and to keep their communications within a reasonable length. A short letter, with a point convincingly substantiated, has a better chance of publication than one with labored platitudes.

CHANGING "MRS. JONES"

"Mrs. Jones will have to change." So says a featured writer in the Times Friday.

She certainly will. Mr. Jones changed two days ago. Turning the radio on and off, on and off, to see if Prime Minister King could say anything at all in a reasonably short time, I decided to wait for the next copy of the Times. Well! It seems we've gone and done it. At least Mr. King says we are about to go and do it.

Remember the time when, under Mr. Bennett, we would have nothing to do with the Soviet Union? We didn't want their gold, though we have been selling our souls for gold since before Mr. Bennett's time. We would have no dealings with a country which forced its people to work.

Now we are to be forced to work. I approve. This is written but not "adorn a tale." The moral will follow when the war is won.

'THE FINAL PROOF'

LONDON (CP)—London's morning newspapers took the lead in expressing the nation's sorrow today in the death of the Duke of Kent. Sympathy went out to the Duchess and members of the Royal Family.

Announcement that the Duke had been killed in an air crash in Scotland was released too late for early papers, but later editions carried brief editorial comment, as well as lengthy biographical matter on the front pages.

"This war has left no family unscathed," the Daily Express said. "Homes, poor, have been bombed. Buckingham Palace, too. Mothers and wives who have already lost their menfolk on active service will personally share the grief of the Royal Family, which plays so intimate a part in the life of this nation at war."

The Sketch said "he would not have wished for a better epitaph than that so concisely written for him in the Air Ministry communiqué: 'killed on active service'."

Editorials were unanimous in saying the death was the "final proof" that Britons, from the highest to the lowest, were in the war to the finish.

'Filled With Sorrow'

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario Tuesday led a group of war veterans he was addressing here in paying tribute to the Duke of Kent.

"Our hearts are filled with sorrow because of the death of the Duke of Kent," Mr. Hepburn said. "A few months ago I had the privilege of accompanying him on his visit to western Ontario."

"One of England's first citizens is no more. He was a kindly, understanding, intelligent soul. I feel his loss because of my great admiration for him personally. After he returned he wrote me a four-page letter in his own handwriting, enclosing his picture and asked me to visit him in England."

Premier Hepburn said when the Duke of Kent was driving to an air school near St. Thomas he insisted on driving the car himself and asked that no police protection be provided.

Japs to Kill Off Fur Seal Herds?

By DR. FRANK THONE

Japs on the Pribilof islands, far north of the Aleutians in the Bering sea, would have little strategic importance. The islands are small, without good landing facilities, and too rough-surfaced to afford runways for planes. Seizures already made at Kiska and Attu are more serviceable to the Japs in these respects.

However, the little men from the East can do immense damage to a major natural resource, for these islands constitute the summer home of the great fur seal herd, where the animals mate and the pups are born and learn the ways of the sea. By making even a temporary landing, the enemy could practically wipe out the herd with machine guns and rifles, or even with clubs and knives.

It can be anticipated that the Japs will make such a raid—perhaps have already made it—for they will want all the furs they can steal in preparation for their anticipated attack on the Soviets in Siberia. And since the fur seals are on Japanese property there need be no scruples on conservation scores.

If a landing should not prove

Canada's Dieppe Honor Roll

OTTAWA (CP)—Release of 10th and 11th casualty lists for the Canadian (active) army in the Battle of Dieppe brought the unofficial total to 608. They were issued late Tuesday.

Of the 608 casualties reported by National Defence Headquarters, 93 are dead, 390 wounded and 125 missing.

The 11th list reported Brig. William Wallace Southam of Toronto, one of the three Canadian officers commanding in the battle, as a prisoner of war. He previously had been reported a prisoner by a German news agency.

Following is the 11th list:

practicable, it will still be relatively easy for the Japs to slaughter the herd from the air with light bombs or machine guns, and thus render the furs useless to the United States. Seals congregated in dense crowds, so hardly a bullet or bomb fragment would be wasted; and of course the poor animals know nothing about taking cover from an overhead attack. Indeed, they are so confident that the regular method of taking furs is for men to walk among the bunched-up surplus males, or "bachelors," clubbing them over the head.

The seals are exposed to possible attack for a very long time. They arrive at the islands early in June, the last of the pups have been born by the first week in August, and departure takes place in November. The enemy thus has a good five months—and the whole mischief could be accomplished in a few hours. It might even be possible to follow the migrating seal herds in boats, killing them in the water, as was done before the recently abrogated international treaty forbade such pelagic sealing. This, however, would probably be risky, for avenging U.S. planes and destroyers could pounce upon the boats and sink them. A mass raid on the islands while the seals are at the rookeries therefore seems much more probable.

Value of the Pribilof sealeries to the United States is indicated by the size of the fur take. In 1938, last pre-war year, it amounted to about 59,000 hides, and this represented only about 2 per cent of the total herd, which was in excess of 1,800,000 animals.

He Died Gallantly

YESTERDAY'S ANNOUNCEMENT BY the Air Ministry of the tragic news that the Duke of Kent had been "killed on active service" in the crash of a Sunderland flying boat brought a grim reminder of the communion of danger shared by members of the royal family, not only with the people of Great Britain and of the British Commonwealth, but also with all the peoples allied against the common foe. The hazards of modern warfare spare neither prince nor peasant; and when a Nazi airman deposited his load of bombs on Buckingham Palace he blasted numerous barriers which had compartmentalized human society in the Empire's metropolises. Mayfair and Millwall underwent a levelling process with lasting effect.

Ever since hostilities began almost three years ago the members of the House of Windsor have been an inspiring example of courage and devotion to duty, enduring the daily risks, mingling with the people in the bombed areas and manifesting in a myriad ways their deep sense of sympathy and understanding with the bereaved and the homeless. The loss sustained by the Queen Mother, Their Majesties, the widowed Duchess and her three children, symbolizes the suffering of all those families who have loved ones fighting for and defending the cause of freedom and everything the term connotes. It is the experience of that communion of suffering which intensifies the already intimate bond established between the royal family and the people by whom they are held in the highest esteem and admiration.

Nowhere will the Duke of Kent's death be mourned more genuinely than in Canada. Only a year ago His Royal Highness visited this city in the course of a Dominion-wide jaunt to see for himself, as an airman on active service, how the great Commonwealth Air Training Plan was progressing. And a few days ago he accompanied our own Air Minister, C. G. Power, on an inspection tour of Royal Canadian Air Force units in Britain. That flying was his forte is evidenced by the fact that he abandoned his first love, the navy, to enter the R.A.F. Thus has Air Commodore Kent died in harness, gallantly, in the company of gallant comrades. He has now joined that galaxy of heroes who have flown before him to the stars, leaving behind them an imperishable memory.

Our War Economy

SOME OF OUR PEOPLE STILL ARE victims of dangerous thinking. They are interpreting this era of plentiful employment and good wages as the prosperity that so long has lurked behind a mythical corner. To be sure, there is plenty of money; almost everybody is comparatively well off. Even Mr. Lacey's budget has not shattered all the illusions. But money cannot be eaten; it cannot be worn; it cannot buy many things now; it will buy less in the future. It can help to buy the essentials of victory.

Beyond a certain point, which is quickly reached, money is useful only so long as there are necessities, conveniences, luxuries for which money can be exchanged. Up to now, and to a decreasing extent for the next few months, the unprecedented flow of money to wage-earners can be translated into those concrete possessions which constitute traditional prosperity. There still are used cars—some with excellent tires—to be had; electric refrigerators, radios, sports equipment; all the things so many wanted so long, and were denied for lack of enough money. But soon, when existing stocks have been depleted, money will lose much of its present virtue, because there will be only a limited supply of goods to be bought. There is every reason to suppose that Canadians will not suffer for lack of adequate, wholesome food, although variety will be less and some items will be scarce. There should always be ample clothing, though quality and style will not be what we have considered essential. But food and clothing do not denote prosperity. They do not provide for what we have long considered the Canadian way of living.

Material prosperity is present only when, after satisfying the subsistence needs for food, clothing and shelter, a people is in a position to acquire all the conveniences, the comforts, the minor luxuries of life. So when we think of taxation and of wage indices, let us not fool ourselves that we can give enough and leave enough to preserve or improve the Canadian standard of living. This has gone into ships, planes, tanks, guns, shells, bombs—and more of it will have to go the same way. There will be no such condition again, until we have won this war. But the wise wage-earner is he or she who accommodates himself or herself to the maximum requirements of a war economy—and buys War Savings Certificates and Stamps.

About Generals

IN HIS "WEEK-END REVIEW" OVER the CBC network last Sunday afternoon, Mr. G. V. Ferguson, managing-editor of the Winnipeg Free Press and one of Canada's ablest journalists, said something about the "build-up" of generals which needed to be said. He was speaking specifically of the removal of General Auchinleck from his command in Egypt, making it clear, of course, that in the absence of official explanation it would be foolish to speculate on the reason for the change.

What Mr. Ferguson quite properly deprecated, however, was the somewhat fulsome publicity which has invariably accompanied appointments of new leaders in the fighting spheres. While much of this might be in accordance with the facts as they are related to the particular officer's record, it had to be borne in mind that in this unpredictable of all wars only by the yardstick applied to actual triumph in organization and superlative strategic attainments could the appropriate mood of praise be fairly and intelligently measured.

Not that the commentator minimized in the least the magnificent service which General Auchinleck has rendered; on the contrary. He merely emphasized the patent fact that public confidence is often shaken when an idol falls. And, incidentally, whatever may have been said about the CBC, its management and its program fare, its "Week-end Review" from Mr. Ferguson is always a job excellently done.

Waste in Manpower

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA DELEGATION to the Trades and Labor Congress in Winnipeg this week has cited statistics of the B.C. Workmen's Compensation Board to show that as a result of industrial accidents 2,500 workers were idle daily. The number nearly equals the province's present shortage of industrial workers, as recently estimated by Mr. J. H. McVety of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

On an eight-hour day basis, this total of idle workers represents a loss to industry of 20,000 man-hours a day. It is a waste that would be a serious enough matter in time of peace and normal employment, but in these days of war urgency and manpower shortage it assumes dire proportions.

As a result of orders issued by the Workmen's Compensation Board and other government authorities, the accident rate in industry in this province has been cut from the peaks of pre-control years. It, however, is still too high. It has now become a patriotic duty as well as in the interests of humanity and economics to support the efforts of the Industrial Safety Council and other organizations campaigning to bring about a further reduction in the rate.

Parliament to Wait?

COMPETENT OBSERVERS IN LONDON see no signs of a recall of the British Parliament from its summer recess to listen to a statement from Mr. Churchill on his visit to Russia and his peregrinations in the Near and Middle East. They suggest the Prime Minister is altogether too busy with essential conferences either to prepare a message to the House of Commons or to broadcast impressions he derived from his talks with Premier Stalin.

If the foregoing reflects Mr. Churchill's official view, as it may well do, it must be rather confusing to one or two newspapers in Canada that berated Mr. Mackenzie King for permitting the Parliament at Ottawa to adjourn for its summer recess. Our morning contemporary, for example, appeared to be horrified at the idea of the House of Commons and the Senate rising to allow its members to take a breather after six months' labors. It is entitled to its own opinion as to the value of those lengthy deliberations; but even the elected representatives of the people can only say so much that is really relevant to the stresses of these times. Beyond that, and between sessions of Parliament, the head of the government and his colleagues in the ministry must translate into concrete action what they believe to be the wishes of the whole of the people.

Surely there is in this a little study in relativity. After all, Mr. Churchill's part in the direction of the war for the United Nations—and, by the same token, the role of the British Parliament—is more substantial, more direct, and more intimate than that of Mr. King and the two Houses at Ottawa could hope to be. And while the drawing of the distinction may be superfluous, the apparent decision of the Prime Minister in London not to curtail Parliament's recess, should emphasize the appropriateness of Mr. King's decision to adjourn at the beginning of this month. It may be, of course, that the Colonist will chide Mr. Churchill for seeming to disregard its conception of public duty in times like these.

Notes

A genealogist finds that President Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill and General MacArthur are cousins from away back. There were ancestors in those days.

A commercial traveler, having to lay up his automobile and taking his first railway trip in 10 years, says he is amazed to discover that passengers now outnumber the train crew.

One of the latest excuses for not going to the dentist is that the doctor has joined the armed forces. Of course, a sincere sufferer could overcome this by enlisting and getting all his work done without cost to himself.

CURIOUS OPINIONS

IN THE VANCOUVER SUN a fellow I know well writes a long, and moving, poem of praise for his woodpile, which he has created himself, with his own labor. In the same paper, Robert Service, the distinguished Canadian poet, who wrote moving stories about the tough men of the Yukon gold rush, is quoted as advising everyone to do as little as possible, to do nothing that is not obligatory, and generally to take it easy.

These two opinions seem to have some vague connection and to represent a philosophy of life worth our examination. Mr. Service, of course, is talking with his tongue in his cheek. Having worked hard all his life, he now advises everyone to loaf; but what he undoubtedly is trying to say is that the secret of happiness in life is to do what you like doing. That is also what the fellow in the Sun means when he writes a column to brag about the woodpile he made with his own hands.

Mr. Service made poems. This had made a woodpile. I do not know which is the more useful in the end. The poem will last longer but the wood is apt to warm you more effectively on a cold day even than Mr. Service's thrilling stories of the High North.

But usefulness is not the test of work. The test is the worker's satisfaction, and by this test most of us fall lamentably. Very few of us do what we want to do. You are not doing what you want to do now, and I certainly am not. You would rather be reading the comics, and so would I; and in a moment we shall do so. For a moment more, however, under the unjust arrangements of our society, I must fill this column and you, because you are of a weak-minded nature and are anxious to keep me in a job, will read it.

POOR CREATURES

THAT IS TRUE OF our whole society nowadays, no one doing the thing he wants to do more than a few hours a week. Now this fellow in the Sun says his chief satisfaction in life is chopping wood out of the forest and piling it up and looking at it and feeling it and smelling the clean resin and rationing it out carefully to his wife, and watching it crackle in the fireplace, and feeling the sweet fatigue of physical labor after his day's outing.

But does this man chop wood consistently? He does not. He writes for the papers, which he hates. In the same way, I know a great tycoon of business whose ambition is to carve model boats in his basement, but he does not carve them. He makes money. And half the statesmen in Ottawa ask only to get out in the bush and catch fish; but they remain in Ottawa and, while Parliament argues, they dream sadly of mountain streams and cool lakes.

The fact, of course, is that hardly anyone nowadays has the courage to do what he wants and likes. Hardly anyone has the moral fibre to resist the disapproval of a society which insists that a man must do what everyone else is doing.

Society says, of course, that it is merely requiring all men, especially in wartime, to do something useful. But who decides what is useful? Society decides and it is generally wrong. If you want an example, surely it would be more useful for the fellow in the Sun to cut wood in the forest than to write pieces in the paper about cutting wood in the forest. In the first case, at least, you have the wood; but under his present arrangements you have only a few words on a piece of paper which is not enough even to light a fire properly.

FRUSTRATION

THUS YOU WILL FIND that nearly all men go through life frustrated and forever unable to do what they want to do. They could do it, of course. The fellow above could resign from the newspaper, buy himself a dozen saws and axes and wallow in pleasure among the fir trees until he grew old, by which time he would have enough fuel to last him until he died. The tycoon could stop making money and concentrate on his ship models. The statesman could retire and go fishing. But they never do.

I have been giving this great subject the benefit of some very deep thought lately and have reversed my lifelong opinion. I have come to the conclusion that men really don't want to do the things they say they want to do. They just dally with the idea, as hard-working Mr. Service dallies with the idea of perpetual idleness. The fellow in the Sun would really rather write pieces for the paper and, if you sent him into the woods for the rest of his life, he would undoubtedly chop off his own head in desperation. The tycoon would smash his boat models after a week of holiday and rush back to his countinghouse to enjoy the only thing he really loves, the sight and power of wealth. The politician, having caught one fish, or having caught none, would get on the first train and rush back to the warm, clammy, human atmosphere of Ottawa.

Thus we are all hypocrites pretending to a nobility we do not possess, pretending that we are simple, wholesome creatures of the woods, and the workshop, but actually we do not want freedom. We want to keep in our old ruts because, however uncomfortable, we know them and we dare not risk the unknown.

Now you may turn to the comics and I (for 10 minutes at most) will turn to my woodpile.

Now would be a swell time for folks to start returning the cups of sugar they've borrowed in the past few years.

What of Austria After War?

M. W. Fodor in Chicago Sun

ON July 27 last, Secretary of State Cordell Hull declared: "This government has never taken the position that Austria was legally absorbed into the German Reich."

This declaration by the Secretary of State has at least somewhat clarified the situation concerning Austria, though it still gives no indication as to the policy of this country toward Austrian independence after this war.

Professor Frederick Schuman, one of the most brilliant students of contemporary affairs, wrote in his "Europe on the Eve":

"Hitler's . . . Pan-Germanic re-union of Austria with Germany was historical nonsense. Prior to Bismarck's forcible exclusion of Austria from North German affairs, many of the small German states were under Austrian domination. But Austria had never, since the early Middle Ages, been under the control of any German state."

For 18 years—1920 to 1938—Vienna was my headquarters as a foreign correspondent. Like New York or Chicago, Vienna was a melting pot. Since the days of the Empress Maria Theresa, people from all over the empire were lured to Vienna. The Germans and Czechs supplied the officials, the Czechs supplied the finest cooks and the best servants, the Italians and Czechs contributed a large share of the most brilliant musicians, the South Slavs gave Austria many of her foremost soldiers, the Hungarians and Germans the diplomats, the Poles the financiers. But the Eszterhazys, the Novotny's, the Goluchowskis, the Boroevics and so on became good Viennese, and this mixture produced the charm and freshness of the former imperial city, which, at the top, was always saturated with French and Spanish cultural influence.

I wonder what those champions of the union of Austria and Germany would say to the union of England and the United States? The language of the two countries is the same—the same to the extent that "Austria" and Germany are the same (the last Baedeker on Austria gave two pages to explaining certain Viennese expressions for Prussian tourists!). Truth is, a Pole from Warsaw feels much more at home in Vienna than a German from Hanover.

Hitler and his propaganda chief, Goebbels, succeeded in fooling the world. They tried to persuade everybody that Austria wanted Anschluss. The truth is that it was only a miserable minority, certainly less than 25 per cent of the population, who were in favor of union with Germany. But this minority was determined and noisy.

I have been giving this great subject the benefit of some very deep thought lately and have reversed my lifelong opinion. I have come to the conclusion that men really don't want to do the things they say they want to do. They just dally with the idea, as hard-working Mr. Service dallies with the idea of perpetual idleness. The fellow in the Sun would really rather write pieces for the paper and, if you sent him into the woods for the rest of his life, he would undoubtedly chop off his own head in desperation. The tycoon would smash his boat models after a week of holiday and rush back to his countinghouse to enjoy the only thing he really loves, the sight and power of wealth. The politician, having caught one fish, or having caught none, would get on the first train and rush back to the warm, clammy, human atmosphere of Ottawa.

BRAVE MALTA

From Atlanta Constitution

When the annals of World War 2 are set down for future generations to study, the heroic defence of Malta must rank with the foremost incidents. For three years that rocky fortress has withstood the terrific pounding by the Axis. Bombings are so frequent it is said even the domestic animals go to shelters at the sound of air raid sirens.

Malta is the island even the British Admiralty thought couldn't be defended. "Impregnable" forts have fallen, but Malta stands defying the rain of explosives. On top of that, Malta's per capita destruction of enemy planes is probably the greatest in the world. In the first two weeks of July Malta destroyed 102 enemy planes. Germany has unloaded her heaviest bombs against Malta, ripping shelters to shreds, but life goes on in Malta.

the blitz than any other people on earth, because they have suffered more raids. Yet the people are cheerful and determined to hold on.

Malta is a shrine of Allied courage and determination. Her defiance of Nazi raiders is one of the most incredible chapters of the war to date.

WAR—25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Aug. 26, 1917—British forces re-established lost positions near Epheh and advanced half a mile, capturing strong points; also repulsed strong German attack on Ypres-Menin road. French troops captured several positions in an attack on the Meuse.

Veteran Nurses Have Seen Service In Many Lands; Ready Again

Presentations of book scrip to Miss Dorothy Colquhoun and Miss Emily Nelson of the Royal Jubilee Hospital staff, and Sister Mary Claire and Miss Joan Dengler, her assistant of St. Joseph's Hospital, marked the final session of the refresher course for graduate nurses this afternoon at the Jubilee Hospital nurses' home. Miss M. E. Morrison made the presentation on behalf of all the members of the classes, expressing appreciation of their patient and efficient instruction throughout the course which has occupied the last 10 days.

MANY VETERANS

The course, which has been held both at the Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, has brought to the fore many women who have seen duty on the active front. In order to alleviate the increasing demand for qualified nurses, laboratory technicians, and hospital attendants, the Victoria Chapter, Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia sponsorship has enabled those who took their training many years ago to re-fit themselves in the light of possible emergency today. These women, many of whom have not been actively engaged in nursing for several years have been keen and eager to take advantage of this opportunity, sitting in classes daily for practical demonstrations and lectures. The course, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Colquhoun, R.N., of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, covered a wide range of subjects allied to the nursing profession.

Miss Lawrence, assistant dietitian of the Jubilee Hospital, has given lectures on nutrition; Miss Carol Cockell, pediatrics; Miss Saunders, obstetrics; and Miss Nelson, and Sister Mary Claire and Miss Dengler of St. Joseph's Hospital, general medicine and surgery.

SERVED OVERSEAS

Those graduates who were active overseas in the last war have many interesting experiences to recount. Record of their service must be inspiring to all those who are working so diligently now for the same cause.

Mrs. J. Griffin, who trained at the Norfolk Hospital, England, in 1914-1918, said that the entire hospital with the exception of one ward each for men and women, was given over to troops who were often rushed straight from the trenches, and had to be accommodated in hastily constructed huts and tents on the hospital grounds.

A year in French military hospitals, at Calais and Boulogne, was the experience of Mrs. W. F. Towill, graduate of Carleton General Hospital, Ottawa, who afterwards returned to Canada on a hospital ship to continue nursing.

SERVED IN JAPAN

An emergency ward in a hotel ballroom in Kobe for victims of the great earthquake in Japan, was under the supervision of another enthusiastic member of the refresher classes. Mrs. H. P. Trousdell trained at King's College Hospital, London, from 1914 to 1918, and until she became assistant matron of the International Hospital at Kobe. Casualties were so heavy in September, 1923, due to the terrific earthquake of Yokohama and Tokyo that the resourcefulness of all hospital staffs was taxed to the limit.

Mrs. B. E. Williams, then Edna Grey, joined the Imperial Nursing Service in 1916, arriving in France the following year, where she was detailed for duty on various front-line hospitals, and also, for six months, on an ambulance train. Mrs. Williams has also been active in public health work in the interior of B.C. for many years.

HAS ROYAL RED CROSS

Recipient of the Royal Red Cross (2nd class) on her return to Canada after serving at casualty clearing stations in France, Miss Alice Stewart of Sidney has been active in the nursing profession for nearly 30 years.

"The refresher course has been a wonderful help in every way, and has been truly an inspiration in good fellowship," said Mrs. Margaret Rust, who is kept very busy at present working in the field of the A.R.P., where 20 first aid stations constitute her particular group. Mrs. Rust, who holds four certificates, including Physiotherapeutic (London Clinic), was sister-in-charge of the Bruce Porter Hospital at Folkestone, which handles all the surgical tubercular cases for the Dr. Barnardos Homes.

Graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Mrs. James Strang (nee Kathleen Holland), was night supervisor at St. Luke's Hospital, Seattle, before joining the staff of the Vancouver General Hospital in charge of the women's surgical ward.

There are many more class members who have careers of which they may well be proud. Mrs. Mary Corson, for instance, sister-in-charge at Ruchill Hospital, Glasgow, served with Mediterranean Expeditionary Force and with the Queen Alexandra Imperial Military Nursing Reserve, as did Mrs. Ruth E. Cave; Miss D. H. Waller, who is assistant radiologist and electro-therapist, and Mrs. J. MacNeill, who was with Territorial Army Nursing Service for four years.

From Ann Arbor, Michigan, comes Mrs. J. K. Goldsmith, who finds that the refresher course she has undertaken indicates tremendous advances in medicine, and consequently in nursing procedure.

"I am envious of young women who have the opportunity to enter schools of nursing at this time," she says.

HAILS FROM YUKON

It is not only those who have served overseas who are to be admired; nurses who are posted to remote spots, often many miles from hospital facilities, and, in the case of Miss Norah Jones of the Yukon, 45 miles from the nearest available doctor, these are called upon to shoulder responsibilities equally as difficult as those of their sisters in the front lines.

Today the need for knowledge in all branches of hygiene and first aid grows more urgent, and with it the demand for qualified instructors. The Victoria Chapter, R.N.A., and all those in charge of courses are to be congratulated on the immense success of their undertaking.

Miss Laura Healy summed up the general response of the nurses-in-training when she said: "A refresher course is a re-education. I am very thankful I have had the privilege of attending this one."

OAK BAY MEMBERS

Supplementary to the list of ex-nurses taking the course, published in these columns some days ago, is the following list of Oak Bay graduate nurses, sponsored by the municipality, together with the school from which they graduated:

HEWISON—RAE

Leaving Victoria today to make their home in St. Thomas, Ontario, are Elizabeth Mary, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rae, 305 East 24th Street, North Vancouver, and A.C.I. John Raymond Hewison, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hewison, 942 Hampshire Road, who were united in marriage Sunday evening at 8.30 by Rev. Canon J. Thompson, in St. Martin's Church, North Vancouver.

The bride was given away by her father, and wore a floor-length gown of white sheer, fashioned with large puff sleeves and a fingertip veil—that was caught in a halo on her head. She wore lace mitts and carried a bouquet of pale pink roses and sweet peas. Miss Jean Rae, sister of the bride, was the only attendant, and wore a frock of pink sheer, similar to the bride's, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Maurice Hampton of Victoria was groomsmen.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where supper was served from a table centred with the wedding cake, and arranged with vases of pink sweet peas and pale pink tapers. Mr. and Mrs. A. Hewison, the groom's parents, assisted in receiving.

The bride donned a pink sheer dress with a beige camelhair coat, beige accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds and sweet peas, before leaving for a honeymoon that was spent in Victoria prior to their departure today for St. Thomas, Ontario.

Nearly 8,000 Women Over 70 Working in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — A valiant brigade of elderly Canadian women—7,851 in all—is engaged in gainful occupations, although they are 70 years old and more, a survey of Canadian labor reserves showed today.

The revelation of their numbers was an incidental discovery of a Dominion Bureau of Statistics study of the number of women who might be called on as the labor requirements of Canada become increasingly severe.

WIDOWS, DIVORCEES

Widowed and divorced women contributed most largely to the select membership of the "over-70-and-still-at-work" club. Of 98,453 women in this classification, 4,665 were gainfully employed, or 4.74 per cent.

Single women more than 70 numbered 18,620 and 2,636, or 14.16 per cent were still working.

Only 1.02 per cent, or 550, of the married women of more than 70 were engaged in gainful occupations.

More than 39 per cent or 13,194 of the single women between 55 and 64 are gainfully occupied, and 27.52 per cent or 3,282 of those between 65 and 69.

Only 2.49 per cent or 5,198 of the married women between 55 and 64 are gainfully occupied, and 27.52 per cent or 3,282 of those between 65 and 69.

Among the widowed and divorced women, 22.48 per cent of those between 55 and 64, or 14,238 are working and 13.04 per cent or 5,100 of those between 65 and 69.

Fewer Pockets for Schoolboy Owing To Clothes Decree

OTTAWA (CP) — The schoolchild, the easiest Canadian to please in the way of clothing, tramps back to the little red schoolhouse next month as a talking advertisement for the stream-lined clothing regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Board officials said today that clothing regulations designed to conserve materials now were generally effective and would be applicable to garments for boys and girls returning to school in September with new outfits.

The lad between 12 and 16 will find his new breeches are bereft of zippers, pleats, cloth belts and half belts where elastic backs are used, tunnel loops and double crease patches.

FEWER POCKETS

He can't have a vest even if he wants one. He may only have two side pockets and one back pocket, and the width of his long trousers shall not exceed 17 inches for size 28 inches waist.

On his long he will have the advantage over his father, who now sports a cuffless suit. The young Canadian—a growing lad—may have cuffs on his trousers, but the maximum turn-up must not exceed 1½ inches.

Suits for lads between 12 and 16 years may be made only in sizes 30 to 34, and must consist of a sack coat and a maximum of two trousers, which may be made up either in one or two of the following: long, breech and short. No golf bloomers may be secured.

Boys' shorts may have a maximum turn-up of 1½ inches and the inseam must not exceed seven inches for size 28 inches waist. They will be without pleats, slash pockets and cloth belts and half belts where elastic backs are used.

OTHER RESTRICTIONS

If he insists on having a sport jacket he will find it cannot have: Belted, bow-swung or pleated back, vents either back or side, cash pocket on outside or inside facing, arm shields, real or imitation buttonholes and chain stitching on the vent or sleeve, chest stitching and design on body lining, cuffs on the sleeve or buttons on the sleeve.

Similar restrictions apply to clothing for boys from 10 to 15 and 6 to 10, with each in separate classifications.

If an overcoat is needed, it will have to be bought without an all-round belt, throat or collar tabs, spare buttons, ticket pocket on the facing, button or buttonhole on the vent, double stitched edges, inverted pleat or fancy back, cuffs or tabs on the sleeves or bellows pocket and facing.

Leather washers may soon take the place of rubber washers used in plumbing equipment.

MISS PEGGY WHITE

Also a Child of Creator

(From a Correspondent)

Of those who will support the Salvation Army's Red Shield Home Front appeal, few will ever have faced the grim fact of giving up life itself. Those who will benefit from our support of the appeal face this vital issue daily.

The Army of Mercy works among those who have sunk to the bottom of Hope's well, those who have fallen to complete despair because of sickness, error of judgment, circumstances beyond their control, or some human failing. But the Army of Mercy knows no condemnation, because they believe that the Golden Rule is better than Jungle Rule; that human beings have been given responsibility along with superior knowledge and understanding powers, and that that responsibility includes the duties embodied in the Ten Commandments.

The Salvation Army believes that man's destiny is first to live and let live, that the ultimate purpose of each individual's life is dictated by each man's soul, conscience and understanding. They believe in helping those who are down, rather than ignoring them or pushing them further down.

New-born babies were not given the power to understand man-made marriage laws. But the Salvation Army contends that a child, born out of wedlock, is nonetheless the child of the Creator, just as is the son of parents of noble blood, so-called.

As such, that child, they believe, has the fundamental right to life, to a share of the food which the same Creator placed on this earth, to a share of the knowledge which the Creator gave us, and to be so treated and loved in infancy by more fortunate souls, that he will grow up to feel his rightful share of self-respect, and to have the character and understanding which will enable him to carry on among his fellowmen.

The Salvation Army annually cares for thousands of babies born out of wedlock. But modern civilization, the laws of the land and our democratic system decree that such humanitarian work requires funds, money, in plain words. The Army of Mercy has been able, through the 60 years of its existence in Canada, to find no more honest or efficient method of raising that money than asking those who have to give, so that those who have not may be lifted from despair and starvation to at least the right of every human being, sustaining of life itself.

The work of the Salvation Army is, as complex as human nature, human experience and human problems. Most people know something about it. Primarily, the organization strives to make human beings live Christian lives. But they have found that too often those who need Christian knowledge and principles are hungry, physically sick, morally outcast, or completely helpless.

Churchill Promises

Fight for Egypt As If Soil Were In British Isles

WITH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL IN THE MIDDLE EAST (Delayed, AP) — Prime Minister Churchill declared today that the Allied desert army is in a greatly strengthened position and that Britain is "determined to fight for Egypt and the Nile valley as if it were the soil of England itself."

He expressed "sober confidence in the future" before flying home after two trips to the Middle East which lasted a total of two weeks.

He visited this crossroads of three continents, imperilled by the Germans 80 miles west of Alexandria and in the Caucasus, both on his way to and returning from his epochal conference with Premier Stalin in Moscow.

Speaking to war correspondents and Egyptian newspapermen before his departure, Mr. Churchill said:

"I congratulate all here upon the admirable manner in which the shocks and uncertainties of these recent weeks were sustained. Now we are in a much stronger position."

"I feel that a historic, epic struggle in the desert will come to a victorious conclusion, though the road may be long and there will no doubt be many pitfalls and disappointments as we tread that long road."

"There is one thing I would like to make absolutely clear and that is that we are determined to fight for Egypt and the Nile valley as if it were the soil of England itself."

"Everything that can be brought by ships and by air to drive the enemy back—and not only drive him back but drive him back in such a way that his power to injure will be done—all this will be done."

Sugar Allowance

OTTAWA (CP)—To encourage greater consumption of the earlier varieties of apples, which are in surplus this year, S. R. Noble, sugar administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, has announced that "until further notice" domestic consumers may purchase by voucher extra sugar at the rate of one pound per eight pounds of such apples consumed in the household.

This is equivalent to one pound of sugar for a six-quart basket of apples, or five pounds a bushel box, crate or hamper.

As apples are not preserved, this fruit has not hitherto qualified for the issue of sugar on purchase vouchers. Mr. Noble

Saanich Accepts Water Rate Offer

Ten-Mile Point Citizens Urge Pressure Increase

While the long-debated question of rates to be charged by Victoria for water sold to Saanich appeared close to settlement for three years, the Saanich Council Tuesday night was again under pressure from Ten-Mile Point residents for failure to supply sufficient pressure in the mains for watering of gardens.

A delegation of 14 members said pressure in the Ten-Mile Point mains was such no water was available between 7 and 11 in the evening, when residents of other sectors were permitted to water their gardens. They said they had water during the day for domestic uses but no water was available in the evening for domestic use or for watering gardens.

One delegate said he had to wait until 11.30 to get a bath, while another reported his whole garden, on which he had worked for 12 years, was destroyed because there was no water for it.

Other delegates reported the only way they could save their gardens was to water between midnight and 7 in the morning, while during the evenings the neighbors had to carry water to the mother with a new-born baby.

FIRE HAZARD

The delegation complained that without water between 7 and 11 in the evening they were left without fire protection. The value of the land was depreciating and taxes would not be forthcoming unless water was available, the delegation warned the council.

Reeve Warren said this was the first time the lack of water for gardens had been brought before the council, and the problem boiled down to a lack of pressure in the mains rather than to a lack of water. He said the problem would eliminate itself with the approach of winter.

The reeve pointed out that the problem was not unique to the citizens of Ten-Mile Point but other high districts of Saanich and Victoria were having similar troubles.

He said he knew of only one scheme that would provide an all-time solution to the problem but that had been turned down by the citizens of Saanich.

The proposal of the delegation that a wooden reservoir be built on a high point of the Ten-Mile

Point district was referred to the municipal engineer.

RATE PROPOSAL

Councillors Tuesday night gave provisional approval to the terms proposed by the city for settlement of the water supply question. The rate suggested by the city was 6 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 300,000 gallons used annually and 5 cents for every 1,000 gallons used in excess of the quota.

The council referred the terms to the municipal solicitor and ordered him to draw up an agreement if the terms were satisfactory to him. Both councils will have to endorse the formal agreement before it becomes valid.

If the proposed terms are endorsed, the agreement may be ended at any time if Saanich decides to provide another source of water, and the agreement will be retroactive to the conclusion of the last agreement with the city paying any indebtedness to Saanich caused by the adjustment.

The city asked the right to apply to the Public Utilities Commission for increase of the rate to provide for a return for the capital outlay should such a capital expenditure be required.

UNIVERSAL RESTRICTIONS

Saanich consumers will have to abide by any restrictions in the use of water should the city deem it necessary to restrict citizens of Victoria in domestic consumption, and if the city needed water from Saanich mains it would receive it free but the amount used would be deducted from the amount purchased by Saanich.

While not in a position to sell at the present time the Elk Lake main which Saanich has offered to buy, the city said it would be willing to lease the main for $1 per year, provided Saanich was responsible for the upkeep of the main. This agreement could be ended by giving one year's notice.

Reeve E. C. Warren said he thought the city was "being very fair in this" and said that "in all our dealings with the city we have been treated very fairly."

Three Rowe Boys in Service

HANK ROWE

LEONARD ROWE

WALLY ROWE

Three sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Rowe, 1420 Camosun Street, are in the service. Hank, the well-known local athlete, was wounded during the large-scale raid on Dieppe last week.

He left here with an anti-aircraft unit 16 months ago. In a recent letter he said he had grown an inch since going to England and is now six feet four inches. Hank suffered shrapnel wounds in the hand, arm, face and left side.

Lieut. A. T. Carroll, who is overseas with the Seaford Highlanders, is a brother-in-law of Hank's and he cabled his wife in Vancouver that Hank's wounds are not serious.

Leonard Rowe is 20 and has just been "winged" in the 1st Parachute Battalion training at Calina, Mont. He has completed his course in parachute jumping.

Leonard, like his brother Hank, went to Sir James Douglas and Victoria High School.

Wally Rowe, eldest of the Rowe boys, is a member of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, Reserve Army. He gained fame on the soccer fields of Victoria. In the summer of 1939 Wally played goal for the Victoria all-stars against the touring Scottish internationals, while the year previous he played against the Cornishians, English amateurs, who visited here during the course of a world tour. Wally also played with his share of championship Victoria teams, winning honors with Victoria City, Victoria West and a Wednesday League eleven. He guarded the nets of Victoria United in the Pacific Coast League for three seasons.

Mackenzie King Expresses Sympathy

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King expressed sorrow on learning of the death of the Duke of Kent.

"I was shocked to receive word of the death of the Duke of Kent," the Prime Minister said in an informal statement. "I met him on several occasions in England and on his two visits to Canada."

"I greatly admired him for his public service and for his attractive personality."

The Prime Minister sent cables to the King, the Duchess of Kent and Queen Mary expressing sympathy on his own behalf and on behalf of the people of Canada.

He also telegraphed a message of sympathy to the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of Canada, who is the duke's uncle. Lord Athlone is in Newfoundland.

Saanich Council A.R.P. Not to Meet In Schoolrooms

The action of Reeve E. C. Warren who last week washed the Saanich A.R.P.'s hands, of the school board was unanimously endorsed by the Saanich Council Tuesday night, but only after the reeve and other councillors had given the board a verbal lashing.

Last week the school board increased the rate charged the A.R.P. for use of school buildings for A.R.P. meetings from $1.50 per month to $5 per evening for elementary schools with furnace heating, $2.50 for elementary schools with separate heating units for each room, and $7.50 per classroom for high schools.

In the meantime, Reeve Warren canceled all A.R.P. meetings in Saanich schools and sought privately-owned halls in which to conduct the A.R.P. meetings. He was successful in getting halls in all districts and the highest cost asked was $2.50 per night, while many halls were offered free, Reeve Warren said.

The reason given by the school board for the increase of rentals was increase in the cost of fuel for heating the buildings. Educational associations were not subjected to the increased rate.

"I'm rather astounded at the smallness of our school board," Reeve Warren said. "A.R.P. work is being directly sabotaged by the school board."

A.R.P. IN SCHOOLS

He said that while the school board was directly responsible for protection of students during school hours, the A.R.P. had seen fit to put special equipment in the schools to assist the board in caring for any eventuality.

Is there anything more educational than A.R.P.? the reeve asked. He said he would like the school board to answer that question.

Reeve Warren said that under the Defence of Canada Regulations he personally, as head of the A.R.P., had the right if he saw fit to take over the school board property for furthering A.R.P. work.

Other councillors endorsed Reeve Warren's plan and seconded his remarks.

COMPLAINTS OF SMELLS

The complaints of two Keating citizens of a smell of "something very dead" coming up from farmland was referred to the ward councillor who was given power to act. The municipal health officer said the smell was from fertilizer.

The offer of G. H. Walton to sell a lot which had been reserved for road purposes to the municipality was referred to Councillor Hobbs.

The council granted permission to E. T. Waring to move his garage to three feet from the sidewalk of his lot and to Maurice F. Mallett to attach a garage to the side of his bungalow so that the garage wall would be two feet rather than the required distance from the lot boundary.

Superannuation benefits for George Rosson, municipal employee who retired July 31, were ordered paid as from July 31.

In response to a letter from Oak Bay the council decided that Saanich should join with the city and other municipalities in preparing a case for presentation before the B.C. Electric rate hearing.

The letter from the Provincial Civilian Protection Committee approving the monthly expenditures of the Saanich A.R.P. was ordered received and filed. W. C. Mainwaring, chairman of the Advisory Council, said his organization would add $150 per month to the budget to defer the salary of the A.R.P. controller.

Dutch Sympathy

LONDON (CP)—The Netherlands ambassador in London, E. F. M. J. Michiels Van Verdun, today visited the British Foreign Office to express the sorrow of the Netherlands government at the death of the Duke of Kent.

The flag over the Netherlands embassy was at half-mast, and the members of the Netherlands cabinet signed their names in the visitors' books at the residences of Queen Mary and the Duchess of Kent.

Sea Birds Among U-Boat Victims

NEW YORK—U-boats claim thousands of victims never mentioned in the tragic lists of "missing at sea." They are aquatic birds—ducks, gulls and many others—that get their feathers soaked in oil set afloat from torpedoed ships (sometimes, too, from the fuel tanks of submarines destroyed in combat) and either sink from exhaustion or flounder ashore only to die in misery.

This distressing picture of suffering among war's innocents is presented by Roger T. Peterson of the National Audubon Society in the current issue of the Audubon Magazine.

Normally, swimming birds' feathers, filmed with the birds' own natural body oil, keep their bodies warm and dry, no matter how cold the water they swim and dive in. But contact with mineral oil breaks this natural protection. Cold water reaches their skins, and if they do not die of chill and exhaustion, pneumonia is apt to set in. In any case, a badly oiled bird becomes unable to fly, and hence unable to seek its food.

Oil slicks on the water are deceptive death-traps. To birds, weary of flying, they are likely to look like patches of smooth water.

Only when the luckless fowl has settled on one of them does it realize its mistake, and then it is too late. Sometimes, too, a duck will dive somewhere outside the boundary of an oil slick and come up in the midst of the oil. Then its doom is sealed in a most literal fashion.

Sea birds have only minor importance as food, but they have more than esthetic significance in other ways. Gulls and some of their relatives are natural garbage incinerators, and do much to keep down the amount of rubbish on our waterfronts. Elder ducks are prized for the light, warm down collected from their nests and used in making quilted jackets for aviators, seamen and others exposed to severe weather. Several thousands of these ducks have been oil-killed on Nova Scotia coasts alone.

Little can be done for oil-soaked birds, Mr. Peterson states. If they are really badly oiled, the most merciful thing is simply to make a quick end of their pain. Less severely oiled individual birds can be freed from the black contamination by careful treatment of their feathers with salad oil; but obviously that cannot be done for more than a few out of the many thousands of debauched seafowl. The most practical answer would seem to be to make as speedy an end as possible of the submarines, and when peace returns to obtain close observance of maritime rules against discharging oily bilge and ballast waters into the sea.

PLAYER'S NAVY CUT CIGARETTES

New War Inventions

By DR. FRANK THONE
WASHINGTON—Riflemen or machine-gunners in future will have an advantage now possessed only by artillerymen, who can tell where their shells fall by watching the flash or smoke of the explosion, and thus correct their aim. This improvement in small-arms fire control is expected to result from a new-type bullet on which U.S. patent 2,288,627 has just been issued here to Frank Kowalski Jr., now on service in the army.

Small-arms bullets, the inventor points out, register their fall only when they drop on dusty ground or a relatively flat water surface. He undertakes to remedy the situation by providing hollow bullets, with the metal very thin near the point, containing a smoke-making compound for daytime use, or an incendiary mixture that will make a flash at night. He states that in actual tests on the range these bullets have shown up well.

Rights in the patent are assigned to the government, without royalty payment to the inventor.

"SQUEEZE-DOWN" BULLET

Another bullet is included among the week's crop of 742 patents. It is the invention of a German, Waldemar Born of Stuttgart, but his application for the patent (No. 2,288,604) was made over a year ago, before this country became involved in the war. Herr Born's invention belongs to the class sometimes called "squeeze-down" bullets, which are intended for firing through rifle bores that diminish in calibre towards the muzzle, to secure greater powder pressure and hence higher velocity.

Around a rifle bullet of conventional type, having a little less than the calibre of the bore at the muzzle, there is a second envelope of metal, with one or more hollow bulges around its middle, of the calibre of the bore at the breech. This takes the rifling and spins the bullet, and at the same time is squeezed down to the muzzle calibre as it progresses through the bore.

They'll Do It Every Time

IMPROVEMENT IN GUN-CASTING MOLD

Another invention of warlike purpose is offered by W. G. Donald of Philadelphia (also now in army service) and J. L. Martin of Lowell, Mass., for government use without royalty. It is a mold for casting field guns, belonging to the category known as centrifugal casting molds. The mold, hung vertically, is spun rapidly after being filled with molten steel. This sets up a centrifugal force, which causes the densest and strongest part of the metal to form on the outside. The present invention improves this mold by making its suspending flanges just a trifle less than a tight fit in the suspending rotor, to allow for expansion when it is hot, and thereby to prevent the "freezing" of the mold in the rotor. The patent is No. 2,289,614.

TELEVISION TO AID AIR PILOTS

Television comes to the aid of the airplane pilot who cannot see what is ahead of him on the ground because of obscuring fog or haze. Use is made of infra-red or long-wave light rays which, as is well known, will get through where ordinary light will not. This light is just as invisible to the human eye as ultraviolet or short-wave light. Photographs can be made by means of it; this is frequently done by reconnaissance planes. But the pilot lost in thick weather has not time to develop a picture. In the invention of Harold A. Adams of Bakersfield, Calif., the infra-red image is formed in a television transmitter and sent by wire, instead of through the air, to the receiver on the instrument board. Thus the invisible infra-red image is converted instantly into a visible image in which all movements can also be seen. The camera may be located under the fuselage or in some other convenient place, with means to turn it in any direction in which the aviator may wish to "look." Mr. Adams' invention is covered by patent 2,288,871.

The present national drive to get value out of all manner of scrap and waste materials might be aided by a garbage-reducing system on which patent 2,288,757 was issued to R. J. Thompson of Michigan City, Ind. In it the garbage is first ground fine, then digested by bacteria. The end-products of this fermentation, principally pascous, are treated with sulphuric and nitric acids. Mr. Thompson states that his process recovers nitrates for explosives and fertilizers, also useful dye-stuffs and other chemicals. He further claims that the apparatus is kept so completely gas-tight that the process is completely odorless.

Canned Foods For Babies Replaced

NEW YORK—The convenient small cans of strained vegetables for babies may be out for the duration, but mothers will not be forced themselves to cook and strain the baby's vegetables. Dried, powdered vegetables can be safely substituted for infant feeding, Dr. Reuel A. Benson, professor of pediatrics at New York Medical College, has discovered.

Convenience to mothers is not the only result expected from Dr. Benson's findings. Babies and small children in war-devastated regions are particularly in need of vegetables in easily digested form. Many more of them will be able to get these foods, because from eight to 10 pounds of fresh vegetables are reduced to one pound by dehydration, with consequent saving in shipping space.

Even two-day-old infants can be safely given the powdered, dried vegetables when suitably diluted with water, Dr. Benson announces in a report to appear soon.

Babies under four months of age are usually not given vegetables, even strained ones, because of the difficulty at that young age of swallowing solid foods. Dr. Benson does not recommend routine use of the powdered vegetables for very young infants. The fact that 84 new-

Accident? Suicide? Science Now Knows

CHICAGO—A man falls off a building. Was it accident or suicide? An answer has been provided by the scientific investigations of Prof. Rufus Oldenburger, mathematician at the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago, and is published in the Journal of Applied Physics.

If a man merely loses his balance and falls, the body will first describe a circular arc and then follow the course of a parabola. It will strike some distance out from the building. This distance, for a given height of building, varies somewhat with the height of the man, whether he stood erect or crouched, and whether he gave himself some slight impulse after losing his balance.

Dr. Oldenburger investigated all the ways in which a man, of varying proportions, can accidentally fall off a building—first mathematically, then experimentally.

The experiments were made with sticks or small models which were allowed to fall off a ledge in the laboratory. They were photographed with a camera making 15 exposures per second on the same film, so that position and attitude of the model was shown at successive points of the fall.

Characteristic of the accidental fall is that the body turns end over end while falling. This is due to the initial circular motion which occurs after the man has lost his balance and continues until his feet have left the ledge. This turning continues during the fall and cannot be stopped.

On the other hand, if a man merely steps off a ledge, he will fall nearly vertically. If he walks, runs or jumps off a ledge, he will land farther out than if the fall had been accidental. In none of these cases will there be much, if any, turning.

By the distance out at which the man lands can be calculated the amount of energy he put into his jump. Dr. Oldenburger further backed up his findings by having young track athletes do some jumping for him. He found that the maximum energy which the strongest of them could put into a jump, made after losing balance, was 100-foot-pounds. If, then, the calculations show that the man's jump exceeded this energy, it is conclusive evidence that the jump was made before losing his balance, and the verdict is suicide.

Air Force Great Love of Duke of Kent, Once Known As the 'Sailor Prince'

Marriage to Marina True Royal Romance

LONDON (CP)—The Duke of Kent, christened George Edward Alexander Edmund, was chosen by his father, the late King George V, to carry on the family tradition by being "a sailor prince," but he turned out instead to be the most air-minded of the four Royal brothers.

Born Dec. 20, 1902, he entered the Royal Naval Training College at Dartmouth a few months before his 14th birthday. He passed through as a midshipman in 1921 and spent eight years with the Mediterranean and Atlantic fleets, the China squadron and also did duty on the America and West Indies station.

But ill-health and a not over-strong constitution forced him much against his own wishes to relinquish a naval career in March, 1929. He was then attached to the Foreign Office in order to gain knowledge of administration and the work of the department of state.

Thus Prince George, as he was then called, became the first civil servant in the Royal Family.

His duties at the Foreign Office were undertaken with the view of fitting him for the position of governor-general of one of the dominions.

But ill-health again interfered with his plans and in July, 1929, he was given an indefinite leave of absence from the Foreign Office owing to digestive troubles.

BEST CAR DRIVER

Flying, hunting, dancing, music and motoring all attracted him and he was acknowledged to be the best car driver and the best dancer in the Royal Family.

A certain shyness which made itself apparent in his public appearances added a special charm to his personality.

After visiting Norway in December, 1930, to represent the King and Queen at the celebration of the 25th anniversary of King Haakon's accession, the Duke still Prince George at that time, set out on one of his greatest adventures he had yet undertaken—an 18,000-mile tour of South America with his oldest brother, the then Prince of Wales.

On his return he made a series of tours through industrial Britain.

Early in 1934 he made a 21,000-mile tour of South Africa—Rhodesia, the Belgian Congo and Portuguese territory. This was to have been followed by a visit to Australia for the Victoria centenary celebrations, but it was felt the strain would be too great notwithstanding that his physique had improved so much that while in South Africa he had climbed Table Mountain.

Instead of Australia he went to Yugoslavia and Greece, a visit which culminated in the announcement in August of his betrothal to Princess Marina of Greece.

A month before the marriage he became the Duke of Kent, Baron Downpatrick and Earl of St. Andrews—the first Duke of Kent since 1739.

The Duke and Princess Marina were married in November, 1934, in the outstanding social event of the year. The ceremony in Westminster Abbey was broadcast throughout the world.

Soon after her arrival in England the beautiful young bride endeared herself to the people of Britain. She was the youngest daughter of Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece. The courtship was rapid. Five days after the Duke arrived in Greece on a holiday he sent a message to Buckingham Palace asking for formal permission to become engaged. Consent was given by telegram.

Thoughtfulness for others was one of the Duke's characteristics and it was not surprising that he and his bride made their first public appearance after the wedding by attending a Christmas tea party for disabled ex-service men at Buckingham Palace.

The couple had three children—Prince Edward, born in October, 1935, Princess Alexandra, born Christmas Day, 1936, and Prince Michael George Charles Franklin, born on July 4, American Independence Day, this year.

President Roosevelt is one of six godparents of the youngest child, who is to be known as Prince George. The other godparents include the King, the King of Norway, Queen Wilhelmina, the Duke of Gloucester and the "Crown Princess" of Greece. At the christening the Duke himself was proxy for the President.

OFFICIAL DUTIES

The Duke filled every moment of his time after the outbreak of war in the performance of a variety of official duties and personal visits to war victims, wounded and bombed.

He was in personal danger many times from bombs, shells and machine gun fire.

Only a week ago enemy aircraft raided a south coast area and bombed and machine-gunned the town where the Duke was staying. In November, 1940, German shells from French coastal batteries fell in Dover during his visit. During the Battle of Britain he missed bombs dropped on a Kent air-drome by four minutes.

That raid was sustained. He took shelter many feet below the chalk cliffs and had lunch there. After lunch he watched a fierce air battle over the Channel.

Two months earlier—in July, 1940—the Germans raided the area he was visiting on official R.A.F. business. Bombs shook the buildings where he and his hosts' family were sheltering in the cellars.

On Aug. 12 of this year he repeated a centuries-old oath when he was sworn in as master of Trinity House in succession to the late Duke of Connaught, his great uncle.

For a time in 1941 the Duke worked for Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labor, and made a series of inspections of war production factories.

This tour followed his visit to Canada where he flew from one end of the Dominion to the other watching the ever-growing Commonwealth air training plan. He included the United States and Newfoundland in that tour and stayed at the White House as the guest of President Roosevelt.

During his tours of British industrial areas the Duke took a great interest in the workers' welfare, especially the plight of the unemployed. Many stories are told in connection with his meetings with the working classes.

Miners in a pit at Whitehaven felt so honored after the Duke had dug coal beside them that they named the section where he worked "the Royal corner."

Numerous stories are told of the Duke's calmness in the midst of the London "blitz."

Emil Davies, London county council chairman, was driven by the Duke through London river-side districts for four hours during a heavy raid. Davies said afterwards that "as the Duke appeared oblivious of it all I did my best to look equally indifferent."

On another occasion a bomb exploded within 80 yards of the Duke's car, showering it with debris. The Duke stepped out unshaken and calmly talked with the people of the neighborhood.

LIKED SPORT

The Duke was intensely interested in sports. He played golf well and in prewar days frequently teamed with the Duke of Windsor on the course. He was a regular attendant at amateur and professional boxing matches.

The Duke of Kent traveled widely. As Prince George he went on an official mission to South Africa in 1924 and the following year he was sent to join the British fleet on the China station.

On June 5, 1939, while the Duke of Kent was councillor of state during the absence of the King and Queen in Canada and the United States, a 45-year-old steel-worker named Ledwidge Vincent Lawlor fired the charge of a sawed-off shotgun near the Duchess as she left her home in Belgrave Square, London, to attend a theatre. The Duchess was not injured.

Two policemen overpowered the man who was later charged with "intent to endanger life or property." Lawlor, an Australian by birth, contended he had "no intention of harming anybody." The man was remanded for trial and after various adjournments, the case dropped from the public notice.

The first time His Royal Highness visited Victoria was Nov. 29, 1926. He was Prince George then and he arrived here from the Orient, where he had been serving in a British warship on the China station.

He was a passenger aboard S.S. Empress of Russia and he was welcomed at the Outer Wharf by the late Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, then Lieutenant-Governor; the late Premier John Oliver and Mayor J. Carl Pendray. After a drive about the city he had tea at Government House with His Honor and Miss Helen Mackenzie and then returned to the Empress of Russia to continue the voyage to Vancouver.

SECOND VISIT
The next year he returned to Victoria with his eldest brother,

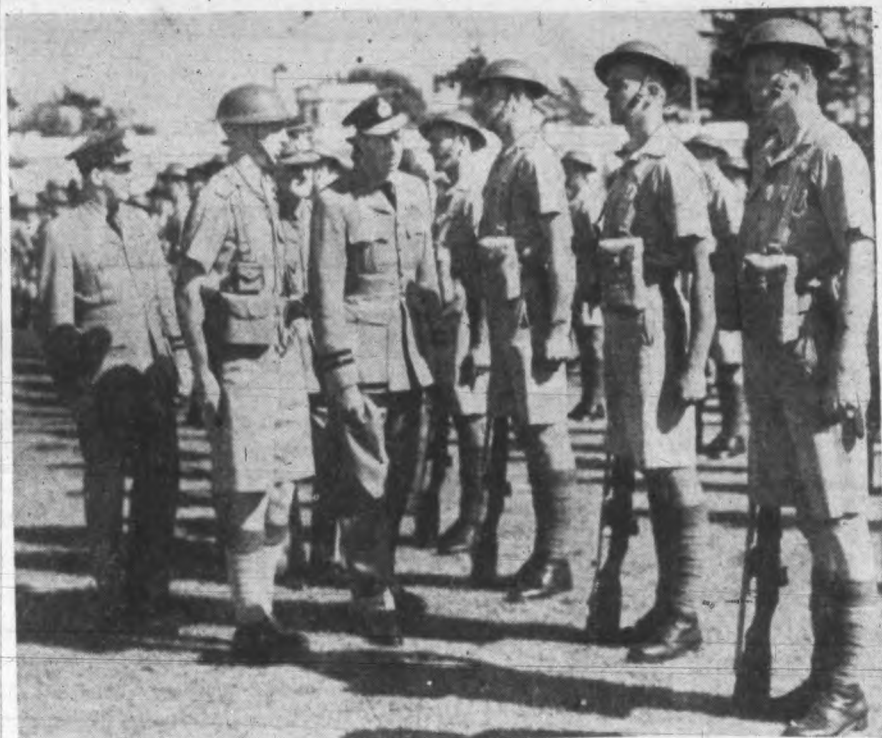

LONDON (CP)—Britons received the first news of the death of the Duke of Kent in a midnight news broadcast over the BBC. "It is with deep regret," said the announcer in low tones, "that we announce that the Duke of Kent was killed on active service this afternoon when a Sunderland flying boat crashed in the north of Scotland."

After reading a brief Air Ministry statement, the announcer turned immediately to news from Russia.

SCENES DURING LAST VISIT OF HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS TO VICTORIA ONE YEAR AGO

His Royal Highness was welcomed at Patricia Bay Aug. 7 last by many dignitaries, among them, from left to right: Hon. E. W. Hamber, then Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia; Hon. T. D. Pattullo, then the province's premier; Maj.-General R. O. Alexander, D.S.O., then G.O.C.-in-chief Pacific Command, and Air Vice-Marshal A. E. Godfrey, M.C., D.F.C., then O.C. Western Air Command.

At Work Point Barracks, the Duke spent some hours with the Irish Fusiliers and here he is shown inspecting their ranks.

Duke of Kent Visited Victoria Three Times

Victoria has pleasant memories of His Royal Highness, the Duke of Kent.

Three times the youngest son of the late King George V and Queen Mother Mary visited this city. Each time he took part in various civic functions and endeared himself to all who saw him. His boyish smile, hearty hand-clasp and thorough interest in all he saw made him extremely popular.

The first time His Royal Highness visited Victoria was Nov. 29, 1926. He was Prince George then and he arrived here from the Orient, where he had been serving in a British warship on the China station.

He was a passenger aboard S.S. Empress of Russia and he was welcomed at the Outer Wharf by the late Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, then Lieutenant-Governor; the late Premier John Oliver and Mayor J. Carl Pendray. After a drive about the city he had tea at Government House with His Honor and Miss Helen Mackenzie and then returned to the Empress of Russia to continue the voyage to Vancouver.

SECOND VISIT
The next year he returned to Victoria with his eldest brother, the Prince of Wales, now Duke of Windsor. The Royal brothers arrived here the morning of Aug. 19, to be greeted by Premier J. D. MacLean, Lieutenant-Governor Bruce and Mayor Pendray and to find Victoria plunged in mourning at the death of Premier Oliver. That day they were guests at a Canadian Club luncheon, being introduced by the president, Kenneth Ferguson.

The princes visited hospitals, played golf, went to church and attended a ball at the Armories on that occasion.

The following August Prince George came again to the coast and joined H.M.S. Durban on which he served more than a year. He did not visit Victoria.

LAST VISIT

His last visit was just a year ago. He arrived at Patricia Bay by airplane on Aug. 7, stayed at Government House with Lieutenant-Governor Hamber and Mrs. Hamber and left by plane for Vancouver the morning of Aug. 9. He visited the navy, army and air force and just before he left received Mayor McGavin and members of the City Council at Government House.

During that brief visit the Duke drove his car from Patricia Bay to town.

NEW YORK TIMES TRIBUTE TO KENT

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times, commenting editorially today on the Duke of Kent's death, said "everywhere wherever there are men of good will there will be sorrow mingled with a flair of feeling for the British Royal Family. It was in their tradition that Prince George Edward Alexander Edmund gave his life."

"They have all been under fire, some in two wars, some 'in the bombing of Britain, and they have never failed of courage," said the editorial.

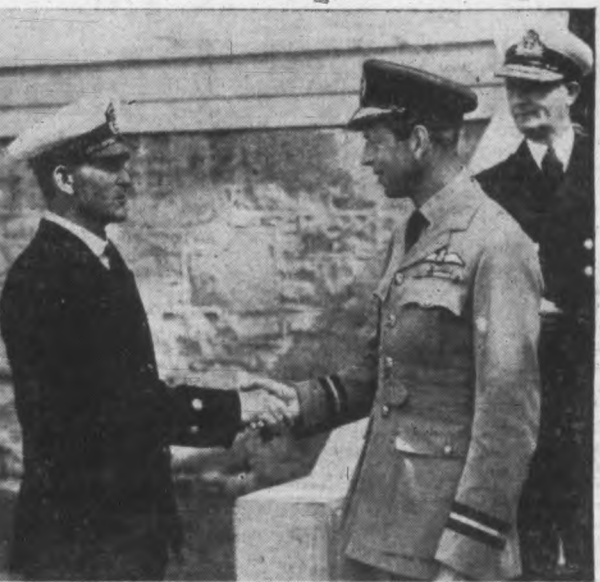

"Let the wild pipes of Scotland sound the first lament. It will be a call heard fiercely in all of Britain and across the seas."

MacArthur 'Shocked'

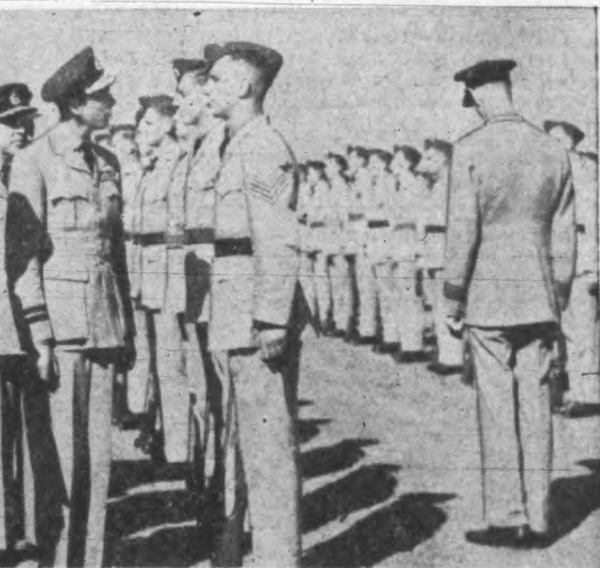

CANBERRA, Australia (CP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent this message today to Lord Gowrie, Governor-General of Australia: "I am inexpressibly shocked at the loss of the Duke of Kent while so gallantly engaged in a war mission. No nobler characteristic distinguishes your great race than its willingness to sacrifice Royal blood in defence of its ideals and of its country."

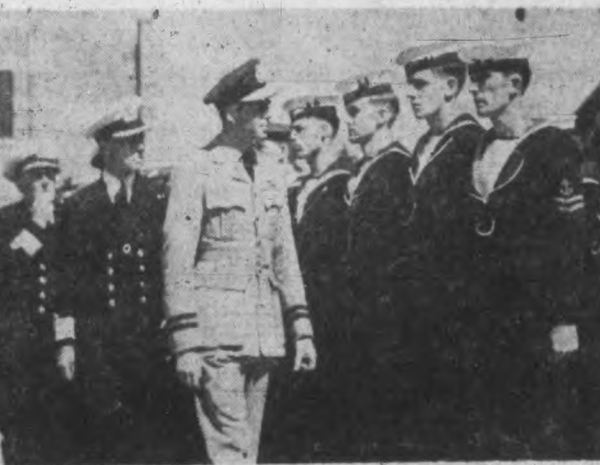

His Royal Highness showed great interest in service bands and usually stopped a few seconds to talk to the musicians. Here he talks with the navy band's drummer, while Capt. W. B. L. Holms looks on.

When he visited the navy at Esquimalt, the Duke met old shipmates. Above he shakes hands with Chief Petty Officer A. G. Bird who gave the Duke anti-gas drill in 1923. At the left is Petty Officer Frederick Short, who served with the Duke aboard H.M.S. Iron Duke. Looking over the Duke's shoulder is Commodore Beech.

The Duke's greatest love was the air force, in which he was a high ranking officer. He spent many happy hours at Patricia Bay, where this picture was taken a year ago.

Bluejackets lined up at H.M.C.S. Naden for inspection by the Duke, shown in this picture with Capt. W. B. L. Holms then C.O. of Naden and Commodore W. J. R. Beech, C.O. Pacific Coast, R.C.N.

Victorians See Eclipse Clearly

The total eclipse of the moon as an interesting phenomenon to the public and professional and amateur astronomers Tuesday night.

At 6.02 the moon began to enter the shadow of the earth and by 6.15 the moon was blacked out, his meant that rays of the sun were cut off by the earth from reflecting against the moon's surface.

The eclipse ended at 11.34. Pacific coast residents missed the first stage of the phenomenon as the eclipse began before the moon had risen. Residents of eastern Canada and the United States, however, saw the eclipse from beginning to end.

Since light rays are bent in passing through the earth's atmosphere, light from the sun reflected back to the earth from the moon made the moon visible even during the total eclipse.

Astronomers take advantage of this phenomenon to analyze the earth's atmosphere by studying the amount of light reflected by the moon.

ANOTHER IN 18 YEARS

Although other eclipses of the moon will be visible in the meantime, astronomers at the Dominion Astronomical Observatory said it would be 18 years and 11 days before another similar eclipse occurred.

There is nothing new in making calculations to determine when the next eclipse of the moon will occur. Ancient Babylonians knew of similar eclipses to the one Tuesday night and could predict, although not quite so accurately as astronomers of the 20th century, when the next eclipse would occur.

Hatchery Fish Indicated By Fins

Hatchery-raised trout can be distinguished from those that were hatched and grown entirely in the wild by examining their back fins, C. N. Feast, director of the Colorado Game and Fish Commission, has discovered.

Trout grown to legal size in a hatchery, he says, have dorsal fins somewhat degenerated through crowding. When they are released into the roomier waters of streams, the fins develop to full size, but are always malformed, and their cartilage structures are always cracked.

This does not detract from the fish's health, gameness or flavor, but does form an identifying mark.

Using this means of detecting hatchery-raised fish, Mr. Feast cruised the Gunnison, one of Colorado's best known streams, and found that 80 per cent of the trout in it are hatchery-raised, a result of the commission's policy of raising its fish to full legal size instead of releasing them as fingerlings.

HUMAN PROBLEMS OF MEN AND WOMEN

In Canada's Vital War Industries Will Be Dramatized in a New CBC Series to Begin at 9 o'clock Tonight

The Program Will Be Carried Locally By Station CJVI

IN NEW YORK TODAY from Shanghai is Douglas Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Robertson, 95 Moss Street. He arrived yesterday on the diplomatic exchange liner Gripsholm. For the last 10 years he has been on the China staff of the New York Times and he will report to his head office before coming to Victoria. His parents last saw him in 1937 when he was here from the Orient on furlough.

Hardwicke Leave, Hope to Return

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, who was cast as the British admiral in the film "The Commandos Come at Dawn," now being produced here by Lester Cowan, left the city last night to fly back to Hollywood.

Lady Hardwicke, accompanied by their son Edward, is proceeding direct to New York to fill a stage engagement.

Before leaving the Hardwicke spoke of the happy time they had spent and the friendships they had formed in Victoria and expressed the hope they might soon be able to return here.

Small Size Cans Of Milk Limited

An order restricting sizes of tin containers for milk products, issued Tuesday at Ottawa by George C. Bateman, administrator of nonferrous metals for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Control will have little or no effect on the consuming public or on the retailer in Victoria, according to managers of city grocerias.

The order limits production of 6-ounce size cans for unsweetened evaporated milk to 75 per cent of those produced in 1941.

The 16-ounce size may be produced without limitation. At present the 6-ounce size sells for six cents each or four for 21 cents, and the 16-ounce size, 11 cents each or two for 21 cents. The manager of one store said three 16-ounce cans are sold to one 6-ounce size. Another said he sold five of the larger size to one of the smaller.

The Ottawa order also stipulated that only 14 and 15-ounce cans may be made for sweetened condensed milk, eliminating entirely the 4-ounce and 6-ounce sizes.

Stores in Victoria normally sell only 14 and 15-ounce sizes.

Relatives of Missing Still Get Allowances

OTTAWA (CP)—Parents and wives of soldiers reported missing as a result of the Battle of Dieppe will continue to receive assigned pay, and dependents' allowance for from three to six months, under the standard practice of the dependents' allowance board, it was learned today.

If it is established that a man is killed the case is at once transferred to the pensions commission and whatever pension, is in order is paid. A soldier, however, is not presumed dead until he has been missing for six months. An adjustment is made in the pensions to take care of any additional amount which might be due as a result of dating the pension back to the time of death.

R.A.F. Hits Axis Ships

CAIRO (AP)—British planes scored direct hits on an Axis transport in the Mediterranean and attacked a land convoy moving reinforcements over the Salum-Matruh road toward the enemy front lines in North Africa, an army headquarters R.A.F. communiqué said today. Otherwise the Egyptian front was quiet.

Happy Memories Of Duke's Visit

The executive council at a special session today passed a resolution expressing on behalf of the citizens of British Columbia their deep sorrow at the untimely death of His Royal Highness the Duke of Kent. The message of condolence has been forwarded to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for transmission to His Majesty the King through the proper channels.

In making the announcement, Premier Hart expressed his deep sorrow that so tragic an incident should cut short the life of one held so dearly in the hearts of all loyal British subjects. His statement follows:

"His Royal Highness the Duke of Kent did much to stimulate interest in aviation prior to the war and during the past three years in which the Empire has been beset on all sides. He set a glowing example for all loyal subjects to follow. His end came while on active service, in an incident which took the lives of other airmen engaged upon the mission on which he was bound."

"Many British Columbians have happy memories of his visit to this province during his tour of inspection of the air training schools. They remember the manner in which he stimulated interest in that undertaking, and his close association with Canada only serves to emphasize the loss the Empire has suffered through his death."

"Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to His Majesty the King, to his bereaved wife the Duchess of Kent, and to members of the Royal Family in this their hour of bereavement."

In Washington

Jas. L. Colbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Colbert, 1811 Belmont Avenue, who has left the staff of Columbia University, New York, to take a position with the British Raw Materials Mission in Washington. His brother John is in the R.C.A.F.

New Moderator To Be Elected

TORONTO—Election of a new moderator to succeed the Right Rev. Aubrey S. Tuttle, D.D., will be one of the first tasks facing the general council of the United Church of Canada when it meets in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, Ont., Sept. 9 to 18.

Dr. Tuttle was elected to the moderatorship by the general council when it met in Winnipeg two years ago. At that time the question of the tenure of the moderatorship was discussed by the commissioners, but it was felt that in the present demand for concentration upon the tremendous tasks that face church people today it was not desirable at that time to make any change in the tenure of the office. Therefore the matter was referred to the 1942 general council for reconsideration.

Election of the new moderator will be by nominations from the floor of the assembly. Decision on the election is decided by the majority of votes cast. The present tenure of the moderatorship is for two years. There has been some discussion that this will be changed to one year. The suggestion has been made that general council elect two moderators, one to serve the first year after general council meets, and the other to serve in the second year.

Dr. Tuttle will preside over general council until a new moderator has been chosen. Dr. Gordon A. Slaco, secretary of general council, will be one of the key officials guiding the proceedings of the council. There have been 98 commissioners appointed to council by the 11 conferences of the church, from Newfoundland to British Columbia. An equal number of ministers and lay members will be present. They include a number of women ministers and lay women.

COLLEGES AND PUBLISHING HOUSE
At last general council meeting the Board of Christian Education was instructed to study the eight theological colleges in the United Church and to present recommendations to the 10th general council. Many feel that in the interest of economy there should be fewer theological colleges. Each college, however, has its roots in local soil, and serves a need in a particular area. For this reason, there has been difficulty in arriving at a solution.

Shortage of ministers is an other problem facing the general council. The problem is aggravated by war conditions. A proposal to accelerate the present theological course for theological students so that the normal course of three years can be taken in two years will be presented to the council for debate.

Keen interest is displayed in the forthcoming report of the commission appointed by the last

New Allied Blow In Mediterranean?

BERNE (AP)—The Rome correspondent of the Tribune reported today that reports of Allied concentrations of transports and warships at Gibraltar and west African ports were current in Italy, where they were interpreted as possible preparations for opening of a second front.

The correspondent said that "these considerable concentrations," according to views held in Rome, might be intended as reinforcements for Atlantic convoys, "but it is also thought possible they are destined for use in a surprise attack in the Mediterranean basin similar to that at Dieppe."

The correspondent said Italians are pointing to French Tunisia as "the most exposed point" in the Mediterranean and asserting that "Anglo-Saxon enterprises against French possessions have succeeded very well." (The reference presumably is to the occupation of Syria.)

The writer said an Allied attack on Tunisia would put Allied forces at the back of the Axis armies in Egypt.

Other Mediterranean areas, he continued, are considered well prepared against "all eventualities."

5 More Suspicious Fires in Oak Bay

Activity on the fire front died down Tuesday and today in all parts of Greater Victoria except Oak Bay, where five grass fires of suspicious origin broke out.

Four of these occurred Tuesday afternoon and one Tuesday night. The fires, grass and bush, none of which did any damage, were at Cadboro Bay and Lansdowne Roads, Uplands Golf Course, Willows Park and two on Burdett Avenue.

Corporal Loses Life

CALGARY (CP)—Cpl. H. J. Manson of Winnipeg was killed and another member of the R.C.A.F. was injured when the automobile in which they were riding was involved in an accident on a bridge here today.

The name of the injured airman was not divulged. The men were from No. 3 Flying Training School here.

A third airman was scheduled to appear in court on a manslaughter charge in connection with the accident. His name was not released.

general council to conduct "an expert and impartial investigation" into the publishing house of the United Church. They were instructed to report as to the advisability of continuing the publishing house as a business enterprise.

The Board of Home Missions, the Board of Foreign Missions, the Board of Evangelism and Social Service, the Board of Christian Education and the Pension Board will report to general council on matters of policy and submit definite recommendations for the approval of general council.

Police Stores Case Starts

Shortages Listed In Boot Purchases

Shortages in the number of boots listed as received in the provincial police stores book and the number for the purchase of which vouchers were issued were given by John Harvey, B.C. deputy comptroller-general, in City Police Court today as preliminary hearing of the conspiracy to defraud charge finally opened against Joseph Arthur Walsh, managing director of Wm. Cathcart Ltd., and Leonard James Simmons, former quartermaster of police stores.

The hearing before Magistrate Henry Hall was adjourned at luncheon until tomorrow morning at 10.

Mr. Harvey testified he had received instructions for a survey including the quartermaster's stores, in June or July of 1941.
He noticed, he said, expenditures were out of proportion to general police costs, and had risen from $19,469 in 1939 to $119,569 in 1941.
He explained the method by which stores were listed, together with reports on purchases through vouchers.

Over the objection of P. J. Sinnott, counsel for Mr. Simmons, and Joseph McKenna, counsel for Mr. Walsh, documents including vouchers, invoices and the stock book were entered as exhibits.

DISCREPANCIES IN BOOKS

Mr. Harvey stated he had arranged a physical count to prove the inventory from the police stores department.

"I soon found many items on the vouchers had not been entered in the stock book," he said, adding he had asked Mr. Sinnott for an explanation. Mr.
Simmons had replied in general terms and had said some purchases had not been entered in the stock book since they were shipped direct to their places of use, as in the case of supplies to Oakalla jail.

Witness continued with a detailed analysis of vouchers, in-voices and stock book entries for the period from March 1, 1938, until Dec. 15, 1941.

They had disclosed in one instance requisitions for 170 pairs of high boots had not been supported by acknowledgments. Of 121 pairs of boots allegedly purchased for Oakalla, only 61 were acknowledged as delivered, he said.

Service Stations May Curtail Hours

Service station operators in Victoria and Vancouver have received a questionnaire circularized by the automobile section of the Retail Merchants of Canada, B.C. division, asking them if they favor closing an hour earlier daily and taking a weekly half holiday.

The operators are also being asked if they would prefer to effect such a change by voluntary co-operation of the public or through legislation making the shorter hours and half holiday compulsory.

A canvass of a cross section of Victoria service station operators indicates that the shorter hours are favored, but opinion is divided as to the method of obtaining them.

Roosevelt

To Address Youth

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt today scheduled two additional major radio addresses, one of which, Sept. 3, will be addressed to the youth of the entire world.

The other, to be delivered Aug. 31, will be made at the dedication of the new U.S. navy medical centre in suburban Bethesda, Md., on the 100th anniversary of the founding of the navy's bureau of medicine and surgery.

The White House disclosed also that a forthcoming presidential speech centring on the problem of spiraling living costs and inflation probably would be made on Labor Day. Mr. Roosevelt had said Tuesday he expected to send Congress a message and make a radio address to the country on a plan now being evolved to combat inflation.

The Sept. 3 speech will start at 9:30 a.m., P.D.T., and the immediate audience will be an assembly of the International Students' Service here, including students from all of the United Nations.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said:

"The President will speak through this assembly to the youth of the world everywhere, in the United Nations and enemy countries, too. If they can be reached, emphasizing the duties, responsibilities and opportunities of youth in the days of war and in the days of peace that will follow."

The Aug. 31 address, which will be about 10 minutes long, Early said, is set for about 1:30 p.m., P.D.T.

NATURE RUNS AMOK IN PACIFIC WAR ZONE.—Soldiers and civilians in the Pacific war zone take a lesson in destruction from Mother Nature as they work amid the ruins of buildings in Masterton, New Zealand after the severest earthquake ever recorded there. Damage was estimated at £1,000,000 after tremors felt from Auckland to Dunedin. The quake struck last June 24. This is the first picture to come through.

Controller Cuts

B.C. Lumber to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An order issued here Tuesday by Timber Controller A. S. Nicholson will reduce to less than 20 per cent of the total output the allocation of the British Columbia lumber for the United States market.

Under the new order British Columbia lumber shipments will be divided as follows: 40 per cent to Canada, 40 per cent to the United Kingdom and 20 per cent to the United States and British Dominions overseas.

At the beginning of the year United States was absorbing 50 per cent of all British Columbia's lumber but an order about six weeks ago reduced this to 25 per cent.

Decline in production and steadily-mounting demand in Canada and the United Kingdom are given as reasons for the order.

Doctor Bought

Sugar for Patients

WETASKIWIN, Alta. (CP)—A charge of purchasing excess amounts of sugar in contravention of Wartime Prices and Trade Board Regulations, against Dr. A. A. Reeves, prominent Wetaskiwin physician, was dismissed in police court here Tuesday when he satisfied the court he had made the purchases for medical use only.

Six grocers testified they had each delivered 10 pounds of white and the same amount of brown sugar to the physician's office during the last week of June before coupon rationing was in effect. Dr. Reeves said large amounts of concentrated syrup in combination with drugs in the treatment of goitre save many cases from surgery, and it was in the preparation of this treatment that the sugar had been used.

Dieppe Proved

Allied Air Power

LONDON (CP)—The Dieppe raid, in which the losses of ships from air-attack were small, emphasized the importance of adequate navy and air cover, it was said authoritatively today.

Compared with the heavy losses in Norway, Crete, Greece and elsewhere, where ships were operated in narrow waters without strong air support, an authoritative source said, the ships and landing craft engaged at Dieppe were able to remain nine hours close off the French coast with only small losses.

This was due, he said, to the strong air support given by R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and other Allied groups.

Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt sent a message of condolence today over the death of the Duke of Kent to the King, Queen Mother Mary and the Duchess of Kent.

Mr. Roosevelt is godfather to the Duke's younger son, who is named Franklin after the President.

Blackout Aids

Murderers' Escape

NEW YORK (AP)—Gangland guns found two unwitting allies Tuesday night when under the double cover of a city-wide blackout and a lunar eclipse they spurred death from a speeding automobile that escaped in the confusion of darkness and wailing police sirens.

Four bullets fired from the car-felled Salvatore Maggio, 36-year-old suit presser, as he stood near his parked automobile in a Brooklyn street at 9:23 p.m.—just two minutes before an army-ordered air raid alert had set sirens a-wail.

Police cars were shrilling the warning for the surprise raid alert test when they received the alarm for the murder car, while at 9:01 p.m. the earth's shadow had begun blotting out the moon, almost as if in conspiracy with the slayers.

With pedestrians running for shelter, and both man-made and heavenly light blanking out rapidly, police missed the killers' sedan.

The 50-minute practice air alert was the longest the city has undergone.

Man Who Came

To Dinner—York

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," the new Warner Bros. comedy starring Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan and Monty Woolley, starts a local engagement at the York Theatre tomorrow. Adapted from the Broadway hit by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, "The Man Who Came to Dinner" has been hailed as one of the most uproarious comedies of the decade.

Monty Woolley, who created the title role on the stage, was brought to Hollywood to re-enact his part for the screen. Bette Davis and Ann Sheridan, each of whom is considered plenty of feminine interest to carry a picture all by herself, are co-starred with him; Bette as his all-knowing secretary, and Ann as a very glamorous stage star. Surrounding the stars is one of the most brilliant supporting casts ever assembled in one picture. Included are Jimmy Durante, Billie Burke, Richard Travis, Reginald Gardiner, Grant Mitchell, Elisabeth Fraser and Ruth Vivian and Mary Wickes, both of whom were brought to Hollywood to play the roles they did in the stage play.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA

An uproarious comedy of life in a draftee camp is "Top Sergeant Mulligan," the Monogram picture now playing at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres. Nat Pendleton plays the title role, and the big cast of fun-makers also includes Sterling Holloway, Carol Hughes, Frank Faylen, Charles Hall, Marjorie Reynolds, Tom Neal, Betty Blythe, Dick Elliott, Wonderful Smith and Maynard Holmes. Jean Yarbrough directed from a story by Edmond Keelo, under the production supervision of Lindsey Parsons.

The final scene of M-G-M's "Mrs. Miniver," now at the Capitol Theatre, takes place in a bombed English church. Henry Wilcoxon, the vicar, looks up and says, "A damaged roof, but one through which the sun now shines as it never could before."

Wilcoxon stood on a makeshift pulpit while the set was being lighted. Suddenly as light from a huge lamp hit two shattered beams, it threw a shadow on the wall.

The shadow formed a ragged but perfect "V."

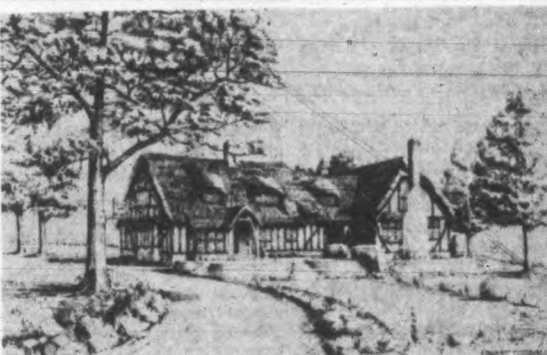

DOMINION THEATRE

Marcel Varnel, Britain's ace director of screen comedy, is the man who put George Formby through his paces in the star's first big laughter-hit for Columbia, "South American George," now at the Dominion Theatre.

Varnel, a short, thick-set, quick-witted Frenchman, was educated in Paris and London. He played a variety of parts on the European stage for three years and later became director for Henri Batille, famous playwright of Paris.

CADET THEATRE

Bob Hope breaks with tradition in his new comedy, Paramount's "My Favorite Blonde," now at the Cadet Theatre. This time he gets the girl. She's Madeleine Carroll. Others in the cast are Gale Sondergaard, George Zucco, Lionel Royce, Walter Kingsford, Victor Varconi, Otto Reichow and a penguin named Percy.

Convoy Got Through O.K.

By FRANK LOWE
AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT (CP)—U-boats were all around, more than a dozen of them within striking distance, but the convoy got through to Canada without a scratch.

The chart in the fo'castle passage way of the Royal Navy corvette told the story. It showed the north Atlantic. There, close to the Irish coast was a green pin. Several red pins were placed near it.

To a landlubber, the pins didn't mean anything. I had just completed an eastward voyage on a Canadian corvette and was now starting back to the British ship but had not yet encountered the map and pin position. So a Royal Navy officer explained.

The green one, he said, represented the position of the convoy. The red-heads were the German U-boats thought to be in the vicinity.

They didn't stick up many red ones the first day. Everything went quietly. We had sailed from Ireland on Saturday, which is whoopee night there, too; but the crew forgot about that as they settled down to sea routine and the job of guarding the lumbering merchant ships.

The convoy, the biggest one I was to see in six weeks of Atlantic voyaging, was met according to plan. Among the slate-colored freighters were several sausage-shaped tankers, new ones covered with weird camouflage designs.

All were destined to reach Canada unscathed, thanks to the guardianship of their escorting corvettes and destroyers. But others on the Atlantic at the same time were not so fortunate, and terse stories of their fights for life came in on our ship's wireless.

Trouble came to the placidly moving processions of ships in the form of a German reconnaissance plane.

The convoy had been spotted, and already signs indicated the submarines were closing in.

All night long, the ships and men waited for an attack. There was one alarm, and all hands piled onto the decks in a pitch black night. Once a bright streak cut the blackness, pointed for the corvette. A lookout shrugged; merely a porpoise horsing around, he said.

As the alarm ended, I headed back to my improvised bunk on the wardroom settee. Enroute, a look at the passageway chart showed an even dozen red pins clustered about the green one, all within striking distance of the westbound fleet.

The navigator chuckled as I looked. "That isn't the worst of it," he observed cheerfully, "so many subs have been reported I've run out of pins."

Big Fish Harvest Despite Storms

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians who garner the harvest of the sea are landing huge quantities of fish in spite of destructive storms and reduction in the supply of men skilled in the fisherman's arts, the Fisheries Department reported today.

For June the catch was estimated to value more than $3,000,000 with landings in the Maritimes, Magdalen Islands and British Columbia totaling nearly $20,000 hundredweight. The exact value of the Quebec catch was not available, but it was estimated it would add about $200,000 to the Dominion total for the month.

The aggregate catch reported was 39,000 hundredweight under that for June last year, but better prices increased the value by nearly $800,000.

Increased catches of cod, haddock, halibut, pollock, herring and lobster were recorded on the Atlantic. Greater ling cod and herring catches in British Columbia were offset by decreased salmon, halibut and pilchard landings.

The Fisheries Department said its instructors were assisting the training of "green hands" in fish processing to enable them to replace men called to war service and to perfect the technique of those already engaged in the fishing industry.

Submarines had been added to the peace-time hazards of the Canadian fisherman, but storms continued to be the main danger, the department said.

In British Columbia, a storm tore seven salmon trolling boats from their moorings and drove them on a rocky beach. Only the engines were salvaged.

Fishing circles recalled this disaster occurred about two months ago in the Cape Mudge area of Vancouver Island.

Smile of Satisfaction

Fishing makes a pleasing break in any man's work day. Even a busy motion picture producer on location gets a kick out of it. Lester Cowan, the dynamo behind "The Commandos Come at Dawn," grins happily with his catch, a 25-pound fighting salmon, taken from Saanich Inlet, near Stacey's Landing, which has been transformed into a Norwegian village for the filming of the commando assault sequences.

Travel Good

Osborne Scott Visits Coast

"Passenger traffic is reaching record high proportions on all lines," said Osborne Scott, passenger traffic manager, Canadian National Railways, before his departure from the coast for Winnipeg. Mr. Scott came south from Prince Rupert and left Tuesday night for the east.

"At all points visited on my present tour," he said, "I was informed by agents that they are reporting steady increases in sales. It is possible that after Sept. 1 the situation may be slightly different. As already announced by the Hon. C. D. Howe no more special fare trips will be operated by the railways after Aug. 31. Many travelers, therefore, are now inquiring about tickets in order to take advantage of low fare available between the Pacific coast and the prairies on Aug. 28, 29 and 30."

Mr. Scott referred to some of the so-called inconveniences experienced by the traveling public now as compared with normal times. "The railways are really doing a huge job in moving troops and war supplies and this, coupled with the labor problem, naturally causes some inconvenience here and there," he stated. "On the whole, however, we are maintaining an excellent standard of service."

"One way in which the traveling public can materially assist us, and avoid disappointment to themselves, is by making sure to reserve in advance for accommodation desired on railways and steamships."

In the case of fishing schooners converted to the use of trawls, the government will pay two-thirds of the cost of conversion. Maximum subsidy for any one ship will be $12,000.

Similar subsidies are already in effect for construction and conversion of vessels as "packer-seiners" to maintain productive power on the British Columbia coast.

Kick Releases Life-saving Raft
By WILLIAM STEWART
LONDON (CP)—A hasty kick from a seaman's boat launches the latest life-saving raft designed for torpedoes merchant seamen.

The 10-foot raft, resembling a bulky packing crate but as buoyant as a cork and equipped with everything from food and water to massage oil, is the most recent development for the protection of seamen.

Stowed on inclined slides above a merchant ship's rail, the platform will hold 10 men, can be launched in one second. It comes right-side-up no matter how it lands in the water.

Scow Adrift

William L. Stamford, agent for the Department of Transport, advises mariners that a partly submerged scow has been reported adrift three and one-half miles southeast from Cape Roger Curtis, Strait of Georgia, B.C., at 8.45 a.m., Aug. 25.

"The output of German submarines remains large and the Allies must depend on U-boat devices to protect shipping," a source said. "The submarine threat is still very grave and our attitude toward it should recognize this fact."

The comment followed reports of increased sinkings of U-boats in the Atlantic and a reduction of Allied shipping losses on the sea lanes off the American coasts.

The Germans are devoting their entire naval building program to the construction of U-boats and therefore can afford material losses, the commentator said.

"The loss of submarine crews is the important thing to Germany," he added. "The Nazis particularly feel the loss of U-boat commanders, who must have experience to be successful."

Golds Drift Down

TORONTO (CP)—Gold shares drifted downward to a new low for recent years today on Toronto exchange and mild weakness ruled for the other groups.

Ontario Nickel was the heaviest trade and it weakened slightly to 13%. Steep rock eased 5 to 1.35 and other base metals held firm.

Hollinger and Kerr-Addison were fairly active gold traders, and they weakened 5 to 10 cents. Barlone was off 15 to 3.85, Wright-Hargreaves lost 10 to 2.00.

British-Dominion lived up and firmed a cent to 20, and Home Oil was down 4 to 2.25. Other western oils held steady.

Industrials traded in light volume and most price adjustments were narrow.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Depressing war reports from Moscow, stressing the dangerous position of Stalingrad, again dominated stock market trends today and leaders fell fractions to a point or more.

Up to midday certain of the key issues showed fair resistance, but in the later proceedings the retreat became general with some acceleration in volume. In a few instances losses ran to 2 or more points in the final hour.

Speculative pessimism stemmed not only from the Russian news but from latest treasury tax proposals, and brokerage circles suggested the recent inflation-hedge buying of common stocks had been halted by President Roosevelt's notice of plans for stabilizing farm commodity prices and wages.

Wheat
WINNIPEG (CP)—Export interest in flour revived today on the Winnipeg Exchange but there were no indications of export in wheat. The October wheat future closed unchanged at 90 cents a bushel.

Trade was featured by the export sales of flour to the United Kingdom estimated as close to the equivalent of 2,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Chicago wheat prices near the close were down 1/2 cent.

Cash wheat trade was slow with mills still showing interest in No. 4 Northern though limited supplies confined purchases to a few odd cars.

Hedging showed in oats and barley in coarse grains. Shippers took moderate quantities and prices held firm.

Dorothy Dix:

Thousands of Men Ruined By Mate's Extravagance

Dear Miss Dix—My wife and I have arranged our joint income problem satisfactorily, but I have two friends who are up against it because their wives seem to think they have no more responsibility for the expenses of the home than when they were single. Both women have jobs, but they spend every cent they make at the beauty parlor, on clothes, or unnecessary indulgences when they know there isn't enough to meet the bills for food and rent.

One of these men is having his chances for advancement killed by the fact that his wife keeps him continually in debt and dresses far beyond her means, while the other man has gotten himself into trouble over being driven by his wife's extravagance into an illegitimate racket. Believe me, no man has a more desperate problem to solve than how to deal with a wife who is a spender.

PETER.

Answer: I believe you, nor has any woman a harder problem to solve than a husband who is a tightwad. And there are plenty of both.

That there are thousands of women who ruin their husbands with their extravagance is only too sadly true. All of us know plenty of men who are industrious and capable and good money-makers who are never able to save a cent because their wives throw all they make away on clothes and entertaining and trying to keep up with people who are richer than they.

Sometimes these women are self-indulgent and lazy and not willing to deny themselves anything they fancy. Sometimes they seem to have a mania for spending. They cannot see anything without an irresistible impulse to buy it, and actually cover themselves with things they do not really want.

I think that any man is weak and foolish if he lets his wife ruin him with her extravagance or makes him work himself to death to pay her bills. I think that when a man realizes he has married a woman with no money sense he should take matters in his own hands, stop all her charge accounts, pay the household bills himself, and give her whatever allowance for herself that he feels is adequate and as much as he can afford. This is kindness to the wife, for in the end she is the victim of her extravagance when she pulls her husband down into poverty.

SHOULD PAY HER SHARE

When the wife is also a money earner, this complicates the situation, but even then she should be required to pay her proportion of running the house and for the upkeep of the car if she has the use of it as much as her husband does. Certainly she should pay for her own clothes and beauty treatments.

But unfair as the extravagant wife is to her husband, she is not so unjust as the husband—and his name is Mr. Legion—who takes all the money that his wife earns away from her and does out only a pittance for her own use. I get hundreds of letters from wives who tell me that their husbands require them to pay all the household bills as well as do all the work of making a comfortable home.

Money is considered too sordid a matter for billing and cooling lovers to discuss in the days of courtship, but it is the most important thing they could possibly talk about. For money is a matter of daily necessity to every married couple, and how it is to be spent and who is to handle the pocketbook is something that should be thoroughly understood and agreed upon before marriage.

ACCEPT THE GIRL'S VERDICT

Dear Miss Dix—At the age of 42 I have fallen in love with a girl of 20. I have known her for six years, and have been taking her out for over three years.

Every once in a while we decide to break it off, and I manage to stay away from her for three months, but I'm utterly miserable when I do. She is the one who feels that the difference in our ages is too great, and on her insistence we avoid places where we may meet the people we know. She is the one who has been trying to break off our relationship. She tells me she is not in love with me. Still, when I go back to her she always seems glad to see me and I know that she has great respect and affection for me. In your judgment, is the difference in our ages great enough to be an obstacle to a happy life together?

MIKE.

Answer: I'm afraid that it is. Twenty-two years is a long gap to cross, and it takes a lot of love to bridge it over.

It all depends upon the girl. Sometimes a girl is born middle-aged. She's never young, not even in the cradle. She's always thoughtful and quiet and sedate. She never wants to be silly or run around, or dance, or do any of the things that most girls are crazy about. Such a girl is perfectly safe in marrying a man twice her age. She is far more congenial with him than she would be with a boy.

But your girl is not of this type, and she honestly tells you so. She is one of the girlish girls who wants to play around with boys who have nimble heels and curly hair and the same line of chatter that she has. She goes about with you only because she has no boy friend to date her, or perhaps because you spend more money on her. She doesn't see the charms and attractions in you that an older woman would.

She tells you frankly that she is not in love with you and doesn't want to marry you. Accept her verdict. Don't try to persuade her into marrying you, for if you do you'll bring great unhappiness upon both of you. Believe me, no man is more miserable than the old husband of a young wife who barely endures him for the sake of the comforts and luxuries he can give her.

Human Body Has About 2,500,000 Sweat Glands

When we talk to people on a hot day 'tis said to be more polite to use the word "perspire" than the word "sweat." That may be a good point, but whether we perspire or whether we sweat, it amounts to the same thing. A liquid very much like water comes out of the skin.

The sweat, or perspiration, actually is 99 per cent water. The other 1 per cent is made up almost entirely of different kinds of salt. The chief salt is the same as we use at table!

There also is a trace, just a trace, of waste matter in the sweat. It amounts to hardly one part in 1,000.

Perspiration goes on all the time, whether it is day or night, hot weather or cold. Tests have shown that an average person gives off from one and a half to five pints of sweat per day!

Most of the sweat is "insensible." In other words, it turns into vapor as soon as it comes from the pores of the skin, and is not noticed.

On hot days it is another story. Sweat then is likely to come forth in drops. Some parts of the body perspire much more than others. There are more sweat glands on the forehead than on most other parts of the body, and that is why we so often feel "sweat on the brow."

Sweat glands are located in the skin. They run from an inner layer of the skin to the surface, and open on the surface as a pore—a tiny tube through which the moisture comes. The human body has about 2,500,000 sweat glands which open on the surface of the body!

When we think of the great number of sweat glands, we can see how a tiny amount of sweat from each one may make up a large amount in a day.

Even though most of the perspiration is carried away in vapor, a thin film is left on the skin. A bath from time to time is needed to take away this film and cleanse the pores so they can do their work well.

When we perspire freely in hot weather, it is well to drink more water than usual. Also it is of help to eat a bit of extra salt to take the place of salt lost to the body through perspiration. Salt tablets for this purpose are sold at drug stores.

Football coaches sometimes give their men salt tablets. This is to make up for the salt which the players lose while perspiring during heavy exercise.

Limit Flashlight Use in Blackouts

The Provincial Civilian Protection Committee has announced that flashlights must not be used during a blackout unless it is imperative and the lenses have been masked.

"No person shall make use of a flashlight unless he has first satisfied himself that he cannot dispense with its use, and unless the flashlight has been dimmed by at least one thickness of newspaper print or material having the same effect, and he shall at all times direct the light downward," said W. C. Mainwaring, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Mainwaring said that blackout regulations covering motor cars are now extended to bicycles, which, if operated during a precautionary blackout, must have the front glass on their lamps blacked out except for a horizontal slit one and a half inches long and a quarter of an inch wide.

Premier John Hart has issued an order forbidding the use of any siren, whistle or "similar instrument" during any blackout, unless authority to use the equipment has been obtained.

Today's average car has about 145 pounds of rubber, including tires and tubes.

With R.C.A.F. Overseas

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Led by Wing Cmdr. A. C. Brown of Winnipeg, the Demon Squadron of the R.C.A.F. made a night attack on a convoy of a dozen German vessels in the North Sea and left at least one in a "smoking" condition.

The wing commander himself claimed a hit. His crew, Flt-Lt. E. C. Kendall, Toronto, P.O.'s W. McLeod, Barrie, Ont., and R. Worthington, Toronto, found the flak heavy. "They really poured stuff at us," one of them said. "But after our first attack we returned to drop flares and found one ship smoking."

P.O. D. J. Urquhart of Sydney, N.S., whose crew includes P.O.'s J. Thain, Sarnia, Ont., and S. F. Guthrie, Outremont, Que., and Sgt. W. C. Gauthier, Toronto, were caught by a German searchlight, and "it really shook us."

Others in the attack were P.O.'s Cam Taylor, Vancouver; Lloyd Ellam, Montreal; C. W. Woodward, A. S. Flemington and C. H. McCarthy, Toronto; G. Low, Norway House, Man.; Flt-Sgt. J. L. Gaucher, Coderre, Sask., and J. D. Ferguson, Halifax, Sgts. J. D. Banting, Richlea, Sask., and J. O. Wheeler, Toronto.

P.O. Dave Williams of Vancouver reversed the usual procedure and gave the Nazis a taste of flak during a raid on Hamburg.

Williams, member of a Canadian Hampden squadron commanded by Wing Cmdr. J. D. Twigg of Ottawa, tossed a chunk of shrapnel at the German gun which planted it in his aircraft on a previous trip to Hamburg.

The Germans replied with a burst of anti-aircraft fire that put two holes in Williams' aircraft, but damage wasn't serious.

One of the R.A.F.'s oldest partnerships has been dissolved. After nine months' friendly but intense rivalry in the air, Sqdn. Ldr. J. A. F. MacLachlan, D.S.O., D.F.C. and Bar, and Flt. Lt. Charles Kuttelwascher, D.F.C., the night fighter intruder aces who between them have destroyed 22 aircraft over enemy bases, have been separated. The one-armed Briton and the 26-year-old Czech pilot who has served in three air forces will continue their intruder tactics.

Pilots from the Fighter Command's top-scoring station are shooting Germans out of the sky on a diet that costs them only a dime a day.

Officers at the station voluntarily decided to live on the normal daily rations issued to the lowest A.C.2. They've been doing it for more than two months and their bag of Jerries keeps going up.

Normally extra food is bought by the officers' mess and the cost shared. The charge may run as high as 75 cents to $1 a day. The ordinary rations are issued, free and the dime a day covers the cost of fish, only addition to the menu that the fighters buy.

Whatever ration-economy meals go into the men's dining halls are shared in the officers' mess, whether rissoles, stews, minced meat or curries. Bacon and egg breakfast comes only once a week. Bacon, porridge, toast and marmalade alternate on other days.

(From the Canadian Institute of International Affairs)

THE URAL mountain range extends south from the Arctic ocean to within 400 miles of the Caspian sea. Varying in width from 31 to 93 miles, the range is made up of low mountains whose highest peaks, in the north, do not exceed 6,000 feet; over the greater part of the chain the mountains average some 2,000 feet in height. In the foothills of this range, and extending east and west from it, lies the Ural industrial centre. Twenty-five years ago the region was virtually undeveloped, although it had been known for hundreds of years that it possessed rich mineral resources. Today, these resources, and the highly developed industries, which have been built around them, may prove the deciding factor in Russia's fight against the Axis.

From the days of the first Five-Year Plan, the Soviet government has carried out a program of exploration and development of this region. Known mineral areas were brought into vastly increased production and new ones were opened up. At the same time old towns in the areas were expanded into great industrial centres, and many new cities were built. In the case of new industrial areas, the speed with which they grew led to some difficulties, since municipal facilities were in many cases inadequate. In the newest cities, however, adherence to carefully drawn plans has greatly minimized these difficulties. Due consideration for human needs and requirements has been shown, and housing and transport are treated as vital adjuncts to the industrial unit itself.

ACCORDING to statistics for 1935, the latest available, the Ural region produced well over 7,000,000 tons of iron ore, or nearly 30 per cent of the total Russian production. It is stated on good authority that production has been greatly increased since that time. The largest iron-ore deposits are located at Mount Vysokaya and Mount Blagodat, near Tagil, Mount Bakal near Zlatoust and Mount Magnitaya in the south. An important characteristic of this ore is its exceptional purity and nonrusting qualities. Smelting and fabrication are carried on in large plants in the near vicinity of the mines, all built since 1918. Ore reserves are estimated at nearly 1,500,000,000 metric tons.

One of the first problems encountered in developing the iron and steel industries of the region was the necessity for adequate coal supplies. These are now brought from the Kuznetsk and Karaganda mines, over 1,000 miles to the east, but connected by rail networks with the blast furnaces. Recent exploitation of the Kizel mines, located nearer to the ore deposits, and the discovery of a satisfactory mixture of Kizel and Karaganda coals has greatly facilitated iron and steel smelting. While total production figures are not available, it is stated that in 1935 the Kizel mines alone produced over 8,000,000 tons.

While Russia has always been a leading producer of asbestos, output in the last 25 years has been increased to a marked degree, with the result that production in 1935 reached 95,500 metric tons, as against 21,058 metric tons in 1926-27. A large proportion of the fibre produced is reported to be of low quality, used chiefly for cement, tiles and other building materials.

UNTIL 1929 it was not known that petroleum deposits existed in the Ural region. Since their accidental discovery in that year, prospecting has been continuous and new fields have been uncovered almost every year. Russian oil men claim that the Ural oil fields are probably greater in extent and total reserves than those of the Caucasus. By the end of 1942 it is predicted that output of the Ural fields as a whole will exceed 11,700,000 metric tons as compared with some 30,000,000 tons produced annually in the Caucasus; refining plants are to be increased in size and number to handle the entire output.

Apart from the mineral resources mentioned, the Ural district is a large-scale producer of copper, manganese, nickel, corundum, potash, salt, and on a smaller scale, gold, platinum and precious stones.

Electric power is produced almost entirely from steam plants, in seven strategically placed power plants. The units are all interconnected to form a high-tension network, and in 1939 the reported total output was 4,000,000,000 kilowatt-hours, as against 1,850,000 kilowatt-hours in 1935. (Ontario, in 1939, produced 8,007 million kilowatt-hours.)

In brief the Ural industrial region may be described as an enormous "complex" of related and co-ordinated modern industrial plants, of inestimable value to the Soviet war effort.

Says Miss Brough One of Greatest

NEW YORK (AP)—The scholarly Mercer Beasley says, without batting an eye, that the United States already has developed a better woman tennis player in 19-year-old Louise Brough than Alice Marble was when she turned professional two seasons ago.

His statement was on the startling side, inasmuch as Miss Marble was in a class by herself for the last few years of her amateur career and some competent judges thought she belonged in the same "all time" category with Helen Wills Moody and Suzanne Lenglen. Miss Brough, on the other hand, was only a junior last year and was ranked No. 10 among U.S. women players.

Beasley insisted that "right now she is better than Marble ever was."

"She has everything, including three different services and a fine net game. Equally important, she is a perfect judge of

Income Tax is Fair to All

This year the cost of the war shows another increase. Canada will need almost four billion dollars to carry on. Where is this increase to come from?

From the large income groups? Yes—but not from them alone! Their new tax rates range as high as 98%. A married man with an income of $50,000 must pay about 67c out of every dollar—or if he has an income of $100,000 he must pay about 78c out of every dollar.

From big companies? Yes—but not from them alone! The full amount of all excess profits has to be paid over to the government, while 30% of normal profits are taxed away.

Clearly, this is a battle for our very existence. Every person, rich and poor, must pay his or her share. Income Tax is fair to all. It distributes the load according to each person's ability to pay.

There's going to be less money in our pay envelopes—because the 1942 income tax of salary and wage earners is being deducted at the source during September 1942 to August 1943.

Here are facts you should know:

1. Deduction starts with the first pay-period beginning in September.
2. Your employer must deduct the amount provided by the official Table of Tax Deductions for your current rate of pay, taking account of the marital status, dependents and personal savings you show on Form TD-1.
3. If you do not file Form TD-1 with your employer, he must deduct the amounts provided by the Table for a single person without dependents and without personal savings.
4. The Table of Tax Deductions is designed to collect about 90% of your total 1942 tax after allowing for the National Defence Tax deducted during the first 8 months of 1942.
5. A margin of 10% has been left for adjustments so that, in most cases, over-deduction will be avoided without leaving a large balance to pay at the time of filing the annual return in September 1943.
6. If your salary or wages are less than ¼ of your income, your employer will make the deductions applicable to such salary or wages but you must also pay (by quarterly instalments commencing October 15, 1942) tax on your other income and must file your annual return in April 1943. Remittance Form T.7.B Individuals, for use in such cases, will be available sometime in September at Post Offices and local Income Tax offices.
